Marshall Asks $597,000,000 For Emergency Aid in Europe

FRIENDS REPLACE HOME OF FAMED BLIND AUTHOR. When the home of Helen Keller was destroyed by fire in Westport, Conn., friends of the famed deaf-blind author and educator got together and built the new house above. Neighbors then gave a shower to help with the furnishings. Antiques and curios valued at $50,000 had been destroyed in the old house. At right, Miss Keller prepares potatoes for the evening meal. She says such activities are relaxing.

PROGRAMS SET BY TEACHERS

Panel Discussions To Mark Observance of Education Week in City Schools.

As a part of the local observance of American Education week which is being held throughout this week, four 15-minute radio broadcasts over station WMRN have been scheduled, the first of which will be heard tonight. The broadcasts will be from 6:30 to 6:45 p. m. each evening, Monday through Thursday.

The general theme for the week is "The Schools Are Yours," and the topics for the broadcast series will be the regular education week daily topics.

"Meeting the Emergency in Education" will be the subject of the first broadcast tonight. E. E. Holt, superintendent of Marion public schools, will be the moderator for a panel made up of Miss Clara Alice Wilson, principal of Glenwood school, Miss Violet McBride, principal of Oakland Heights school, and A. T. Allen, visiting teacher.

Orcutt Is Chairman

Tuesday's program will have W. E. Orcutt, principal of Central Junior High school, as chairman. Taking part in the discussion of the subject, "Building America's Future," will be Miss Edith Brown, American history teacher at Harding High school, U. A. Nystrom and Miss Margaret Huffman, Christian Education director of Epworth Methodist church.

A panel made up of members of the Marion Education association will present the program Wednesday on "Strengthening the Teaching Profession." Clark M. Fouts, association president and principal at Silver Street school, will be moderator, with Miss Pansy Rauhauser, teacher at Harding High school, Miss Bessie Snyder, teacher at Central Junior High school, and William N. Wiley, also of the Harding faculty, as members of the panel.

Concluding Program

The concluding program in the series, "Supporting Adequate Education," will be given Thursday night, sponsored by the Marion Parent-Teachers' council. The panel chairman will be Paul Bingman, principal of Mark Street and Forest Lawn schools, with Mrs. C. R. Pennisten, Mrs. Richard Plantz and Mrs. Lawrence B. Morse making up the panel.

Visitation of parents to the schools their children attend this week is being urged by the Marion Education association as a part of the observance. Exhibits of pupils' work will be on display.

LIMA POLICE CHIEF TO FIGHT DEMOTION

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Nov. 10—Police Chief Kermit L. Westbay said today he will appeal his second demotion to Patrolman within a year to the city civil service commisison which previously reinstated him.

Mayor W. L. Ferguson said he demoted Westbay, effective next Saturday, as the result of a collision between a city-owned police car driven by Westbay and a truck at Mt. Victory, south of Kenton, last Oct. 15.

Westbay and three other persons were enroute to a state liquor board hearing involving a Lima bar when the accident occurred. Westbay and Patrolman Ellis E. Vandemark were injured.

Ferguson accused the police chief of going "in excess of 80 miles an hour" and with allowing insufficient time for the trip. The mayor lodged nine counts in all against Westbay.

Ferguson demoted Westbay to patrolman last January on misconduct charges but the city civil service commisison reinstated him.

Marion To Join Nation In Armistice Program

Marion will join the nation in paying tribute to men and women who sacrificed their lives in World Wars I and II in the third postwar Armistice day observance Tuesday. Federal and county offices will suspend business, as will banks and building and loans and schools will be closed. Business places will display the nation's colors and residents of the city and community are invited to join in the general observance of the day.

In keeping with an annual custom veterans organizations, headed by Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, assisted by the Marion Navy club and the AMVETS, will hold a memorial service at 11 a. m. at the courthouse, and the day's observance will be climaxed with a parade sponsored by the United Veterans and Civic Council at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The various veterans groups will observe open house for members and friends following the parade.

Schools to Close

The Marion postoffice will be closed and there will be no rural deliveries. With the dismissal of both the public and parochial schools this afternoon there will be no more classes until Wednesday morning. Following the 8 o'clock mass at St. Mary Catholic church Tuesday morning there will be prayers for those who sacrificed their lives for the nation.

The exercises at the courthouse will get under way at 10:30 o'clock and the program at 11 a. m. will be broadcast over both the loud speaker and WMRN. Rev. J. B. Holloway, pastor of Trinity Baptist church and chaplain of Bird-McGinnis Post, will offer the opening prayer and there will be a talk by Very Rev. William J. Spickerman, V. F., pastor of St. Mary Catholic church. The memorial address will be given by J. W. Llewellyn, a past commander of the Marion County Post and publicity officer of Bird-McGinnis Post. The memorial prayer will be by Jewell L. Ralston, also a past post commander. The program will be interspersed with music and at the close a memorial wreath will be placed at the honor roll at the west entrance of the courthouse. There will be a firing squad from the Marion Navy club and taps will be sounded by a Harding High school student.

Col. R. E. Copeland will be grand marshal for the parade which will start at Olney avenue, march east on Center to Vine street, south on Vine to Church and west on Church to Orchard. Serving as chief of staff will be Lt. Col. L. H. Larsen. Music will be by the Harding, Claridon, Pleasant and Caledonia school bands and the Eagles band.

Ribbons and plaques will be awarded for floats and entries in the parade by the judges, Mayor

YEAR'S SECOND ECLIPSE OF SUN DUE WEDNESDAY

By The United Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10—The year's second eclipse of the sun will occur Wednesday, and residents of the San Francisco Bay area will have the best view in the nation of the astronomical phenomena.

Prof. William F. Meyer, University of California astronomer, said the eclipse would begin at 9:52 a. m. (PST), reach its maximum of 40 per cent at 11:05 a. m. and end at 12:23 p. m.

Observers throughout most of the United States will catch a glimpse of the eclipse as the moon comes between the earth and the sun, but the east coast will see only about two per cent of the shadow.

The eclipse will reach its height along a path starting over the Pacific ocean and crossing into Peru and Brazil. A total eclipse occurred in Brazil last May 20.

Cats Bequeathed Most Of $32,000 Estate

By The Associated Press

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 10—Budgie, five-year-old Maltese tomcat, and Pitty Sing, 12-year-old tom of unknown lineage, are the principal beneficiaries of the $32,000 estate left by Sarah Y. Furber, retired school teacher who died last year at the age of 75.

Under the terms of Miss Furber's will, filed for accounting Saturday, the two cats are to be cared for during the remainder of their nine lives by Veterinarian Frank A. Wright, who is to receive one dollar a day for each cat's care.

After the death of the two cats, the remainder of the estate goes to the First Presbyterian church of Merchantville, N. J.

REPORT HUNDREDS DROWN

By The Associated Press

ISTANBUL, TURKEY, Nov. 10—Several hundred persons were reported today to have drowned in a sudden flood which engulfed several villages along the Sevinan river in southern Turkey. The flood struck early Sunday after several days of heavy rainfall and trapped residents in their homes.

HUGHES TELLS ABOUT MEYER'S EXPENSE BILLS

Says He Never Saw Publicity Man's Account Until Inquiry Started.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Howard Hughes testified today Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers tried to borrow $200,000 from him during the war when Meyers was negotiating a multi-million-dollar plane contract with Hughes.

* * *

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Howard Hughes said today he never say publicity man John W. Meyer's expense accounts until a senate committee began an inquiry into the $40,000,000 in wartime plane contracts awarded Hughes.

Meyer's accounts, made public by the committee last summer, listed $164,000 spent on entertainment of Army officers and government officials about the period the Hughes contracts were let.

Some of those named in the accounts have denied that such sums as Meyer listed were spent on them.

Hughes said he had heard that Army Air Force officers at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, did not like him, so he had assigned the free-spending Meyer to a public relations job.

"I believe I just assigned him to the job and left it to his own discretion," Hughes said.

Hughes testified before a senate war investigating subcommittee headed by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich). The committee is investigating circumstances of the award of the contracts to the millionaire, west coast plane builder and movie producer.

Thinks Money Due Hughes

Before Hughes was called to the stand, Maj. Harold L. Holland told the committee he believes Hughes is entitled to collect $1,900,000 in preliminary development costs for a photo reconnaissance plane.

Holland is an attorney attached to the judge advocate's staff at Wright field where army aeronautical research is centered.

Holland said there has been no official determination, but he believes that under "strict terms" of the contract Hughes probably can claim the $1,900,000.

Whether he is entitled to it has been disputed in testimony from previous witnesses.

Hughes himself has told reporters that he won't get the $1,900,000 unless his contract for photo planes should be canceled.

Hughes received two contracts, one for photo reconnaissance planes and one for a huge flying boat.

Holland said he wanted to make it clear that Hughes in any event

MURRAY ON SPOT IN UAW DISPUTE

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 10—CIO President Philip Murray today flatly endorsed Walter Reuther for reelection as president of the United Auto Workers.

* * *

By The United Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 10—Fueding factions of the United Auto Workers (CIO) put CIO President Philip Murray on the spot today in their row over whether union officers should sign the non-Communist affidavits required by the Taft-Hartley law.

Murray was due to address the auto union's eleventh convention. This is his first public appearance since the national labor relations board threw out major cases of the United SteelWorkers (CIO) last week and closed its doors to unions failing to comply with the filing provisions.

Murray has refused to sign the affidavit as president of the United Steel Workers. He faced the ticklish job of discussing his position toward the new labor law without giving aid to UAW President Walter P. Reuther or his foes headed by Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes and Vice Presidents R. J. Thomas and Richard T. Leonard.

Reuther favored signing the affidavits so that his union can use the labor relations board.

Thomas opposed signing the affidavits, "taking my stand with Phil Murray." He was supported by Addes.

Truman Voices Alarm Over Plight of Greece

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—President Truman told congress today "Greece is still free" because of American aid but her economic plight "has not basically improved" and the military picture is worse.

That is the way he sized things up as of Sept. 30, four months after congress set up a $400,000,000 fund to help Greece and Turkey combat communistic pressure from inside and outside their borders.

The President expressed "grave concern" that "underlying causes of economic and political unrest" still exist in Greece.

But in his report to congress on how the aid money is being used, the nearest thing to a hint that more might be asked was a statement that:

"The difficulties which hamper the success of this program must be overcome. Continuation of marginal subsistence only in Greece, without real progress toward recovery, will provide fertile ground for totalitarian ideologies."

Small Fraction Spent

The presidential report showed that up to Sept. 30 only $17,460,171 of Greece's $300,000,000 and $1,349 of Turkey's $1000,000,000 actually had been spent with $130,162 used for administrative expenses. However $154,665,000 been made available to the various agencies carrying out the Greek program and $20,012,000 to be spent for Turkey.

The report listed numerous "unfavorable developments" which have beset the aid programs but said that in Greece "there is every reason to be optimistic about recovery"—if order can be restored.

As for the military situation, the President said the Greek government had hoped a summer campaign would wipe out guerrilla warfare.

"However," he added, "the continued support of the guerrillas by Greece's northern neighbors (Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Albania) and the diversion of Greek troops from large-scale offensive warfare to the static defense of villages resulted in an over-all worsening of the military situation."

Funds Shifted

So, he said, at the urgent request of the Greek government, the American aid mission shifted to the military program some money originally allotted to reconstruction and recovery. Originally, the $300,000,000 was split about equally between the two programs. Now, the report shows, the military end will get around $168,000,000.

The President outlined "initial steps" that have been taken to bolster Turkey. The ultimate aim, as in the case of Greece, he said, is to help free people maintain a government in accordance with the wish of the majority.

In addition to guerrilla warfare, Mr. Truman listed as adverse factors in Greece:

Drouth that has cut the cereal harvest a third.

Reluctance of businessmen to invest funds in Greek enterprises under present unstable conditions

ACT TO SET UP BONUS SYSTEM

State Officials Meet To Start Program for Payments to War Veterans.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10—The state sinking fund commission informally discussed plans today for providing facilities to distribute $300,000,000 in bonuses to World War II veterans of Ohio.

Members said official plans and actions must await certification of passage of the bonus amendment, a second amendment adding the governor and the state treasurer to the commission.

However, the commission asked Adj. Gen. C. W. Goble to make a preliminary search for office quarters for the bonus dispensing office.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert pointed out a sizeable space would be needed. He said the Michigan bonus administration had 550 employes and suggested Ohio would need a large number.

Decide on Forms

Goble also presented proposed application forms and the commission informally decided three types of application form would be necessary. One for living veterans, one for dependents of deceased veterans, and a third for veterans yet in service.

All members said they had received requests from veterans asking, "when do we get our money," but explained no payments would be made until administration facilities and forms were provided.

Another informal meeting of the commission was set for Wednesday afternoon.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, commission chairman, previously suggested a bonus administrator might be named today.

The administrator's job will be the key position in the payment of bonuses ranging from $30 to $400 to Ohio's 800,000 World War II servicemen and women.

To Outline Plans

Ferguson planned to outline to the commission, which also includes Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins and Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel, the distribution methods Ohio uses in paying its first war bonuses. Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, who become members of the commission as soon as a constitutional amendment approved by voters Nov. 4 becomes effective, were expected to attend the conference.

Payments Delayed

Bonus payments probably will not start much before spring, according to best available estimates. Veterans, who were residents of Ohio for one year before entering service, will be paid at the rate of $10 a month for domestic duty and $15 a month for overseas service between Pearl Harbor and the end of the war. The minimum payment of $30 is based on a requirement of 90 days duty. The maximum is $400.

The sinking fund commission besides setting up the administrative machinery, also must issue the $275,000,000 in bonds necessary for payment of the bonus. The last legislature appropriated the other $25,000,000 from the general fund. Most of the money will be raised through a real estate tax.

This was the first sinking fund commission meeting for Herbert and Ebright. They were added to the commission under a constitutional amendment approved, along with the bonus and two other measures, by voters last Tuesday.

KIDNAP SLAYER SAYS DIDN'T MEAN TO KILL

By The Associated Press

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 10—A 27-year-old farmer, sought by police in a 24-hour four-state manhunt in connection with a double slaying and the kidnaping of his paramour, surrendered unexpectedly yesterday and told a story of a frustrated love affair.

"I didn't mean to kill those men," Glenn Marsh told reporters after he gave himself up at the home of his father here. "If they'd set down when they saw the gun they wouldn't have been hurt."

At the time of his arrest, officers quoted him as saying "I'm ready to face the music."

The manhunt for Marsh began after the fatal shootings Friday night of Vernon Anderson, 28, and Grant Muhrlein, 52, of Northport, Mich., and the kidnaping of Mrs. Katherine Anderson, 26, mother of three and wife of Vernon. The shootings occurred in the home of Vernon's parents. Muhrlein was Mrs. Anderson's father.

Max A. Weston, Winnebago county state's attorney, said Marsh was booked on charges of murder and kidnaping.

West Mansfield Youth Killed in Gun Accident

By The Associated Press

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Nov. 10—Billy Gene Comer, 18, was wounded fatally last night at his home at West Mansfield when a revolver fell from a brother's pocket and discharged while they and other members of the family were at the dining table, Sheriff Ellsworth M. Palmer reported.

STATE HOSPITAL DOCTOR HEARD IN MURDER TRIAL

By International News Service

BELLEFONTAINE, Nov. 10—Dr. Lowell Dillong, Lima State hospital psychologist, was called to the stand today in the first-degree murder trial of Roger Williams, 33-year-old Indian Lake housepainter.

The psychologist was expected to testify that Williams, on trial for the fatal shooting of Minta Webb, Rothwell, 23, of Kenton last May 28, is insane.

Williams entered a guilty plea, but his counsel seeks to prove him incapable of premeditated murder.

"Dynamic Capital" Aid, Labor Law Changes, in Stassen Plan

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Harold E. Stassen, asserting the American economic system requires enormous sums of "dynamic capital," urged today a sharp cut in upper bracket individual income taxes and a special levy on large fortunes.

In a book entitled "Where I Stand," (published by Doubleday) the announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination also suggested new programs for housing and health, three amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor act, and a dozen steps for combatting communism in this country.

Much of the material covering 12 chapters has been discussed previously by the former Minnesota governor. He said the three chapters on taxes, housing and health are new. His tax proposal would provide:

1—A "ceiling" tax of 50 per cent on an individual's income as compared with what he called the present "confiscatory 90 per cent." (Present law has an 88 per cent top surtax bracket, but says not more than 85½ per cent of a person's income may be taken in taxes.)

2—A "floor" under taxes requiring all fortunes above "a certain amount" to pay taxes of all kinds equal to at least 1½ per cent a year of the principal. This would amount to a capital levy where taxes on a fortune did not come up to 1½ per cent. It is aimed at tax-exempt government bonds and what Stassen called "stagnant investments"—earning very little income.

3—Special reductions in rates for small businesses.

4—Some "correction" of the earned income tax.

4—General "consumers" or excise taxes if needed to balance the budget after paying $3,000,000,000 a year on the public debt.

6—The entire program, assuming it became law, would then fluctuate to counteract sharp swings in the economic pendulum: when unemployment, for example, reached six per cent of the total labor force, there would be a special cut in taxes, easement of curbs on installment buying, and a stepped-up government building program "done by private contracts and not on a WPA basis."

When employment climbed back to where less than four per cent were jobless, taxes would go back to maximum peace-time levels, credit controls would be restored, and government spending sharply reduced.

Called a "Real Threat"

Stassen said the nation has reached a point where its taxes are a "real threat to the long term future source of dynamic capital." In urging reduction in the high income taxes, he said, he is not pleading "special privilege

MARION C. OF C. SPEAKER. Former United States senator from Oklahoma and at present a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Hon. Josh Lee will speak at Hotel Harding at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at the annual dinner meeting of the Marion Chamber of Commerce. Subject of his address will be "Aviation and a Brave New World." One of the administration's leaders in the senate and an ardent advocate of the late President Roosevelt's foreign policy he was appointed to the aeronautics board by the President upon leaving the senate. Known as "Oklahoma's silver-tongued orator," Mr. Lee has been proclaimed as one of the greatest speakers in American public life.

'REAL, URGENT' NEEDS CITED IN 3 COUNTRIES

Congress Told 'Chances Good' in Helping Preserve Free Society.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Secretary of State Marshall asked congress today to supply $597,000,000 in emergency aid to meet a "real" and "urgent" need in France, Italy and Austria.

The secretary, appearing before a joint meeting of the senate and house foreign committees a week preceding a special congressional session, said long-range help for these and other countries may eventually cost $16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000.

That is higher than a 19-man citizens committee had estimated. But Marshall commented it is impossible to calculate this amount accurately now.

With Europe dependent on American help to get back on her feet Marshall told the legislators in a statement that decisions in the forthcoming special session "will be no less important for the future of our country and the world than those of the war years."

Marshall said that in the aid program the "risks are real" but the "chances of success are good" in helping the people of western Europe preserve their free society.

He cracked occasionally at Russia, saying right at the start that while Britain, France and the United States formed policies to restore Europe to health, "it is now clear that only one power, the Soviet Union, does not for its own reasons share this aim."

Not All Free

And, he said, the fact must be faced that despite American efforts to help the whole European community, "not all of the European nations have been left free to take their place in the community of which they form a natural part."

To the east of the line where Allied armies ended the war in Germany, the secretary said, is "the unmistakable imprint of an alien hand."

Consequently, Marshall said, the geographic scope of the recovery program contemplated by the country "is limited to those nations which are free to act in accordance with their national traditions and their own estimates of their national interests."

Marshall omitted in his request for emergency aid any estimate of additional help for the British-American occupation zone in western Germany, plus the zones of Japan and Korea. Since this is an army department matter, presumably any recommendations must come from Secretary of Defense Forrestal or Secretary of the Army Royall.

The additional occupation cost is expected to run about $400,000,000.

Allotments Listed

Of the $597,000,000 for emergency assistance, Marshall said France needs $328,000,000, Italy $227,000,000 and Austria $42,000,000 to carry them through March 1948.

By then, the secretary said, it is hoped congress will have decided on the broad, long range recovery plan bearing Marshall's name. This will be outlined in detail later, probably after congress reconvenes Nov. 17.

Interim aid, Marshall said, would be concentrated largely on food, fuel, fertilizer, fibers, seeds and medical supplies.

The program can be handled by existing government agencies but should be carried out under definite agreements with each of the nations involved he said.

On the long range program, he added, it is contemplated that a definite pact will be negotiated with each participating country.

Places Italy First

The secretary made it evident the administration regards the economic situation in non-Communist Italy as the most serious in western Europe.

"Italy's financial situation," he said, "is even more serious than that of Austria or France."

For the period immediately following emergency help, Marshall said, it is is estimated $7,500,000,000 will be needed over 15 months. He said $1500,000,000 will be required for the last three months of the fiscal year ending next June 30, and $6,000,000,000 for the full year beginning July 1.

The secretary's discussion of the nature and scope of the longer program represented the first official administration comments on the views of 16 western European countries.

These are the ones which met in Paris and figured that over the next four years they would need $22,440,000,000 in outside help, mostly from the United States.

TWO KILLED IN CAREY CRASHES

Motorist and Motorcycle Rider Die in Separate Traffic Accidents.

Special to The Star

CAREY, Nov. 10—Traffic accidents near here Sunday resulted in deaths of two, and injury of four others.

Denell D. Fletcher, 18, of east of Carey was killed instantly when the motorcycle he was operating and an automobile driven by Harold J. Otterson, 44, of Olmstead Falls collided two miles east of here on route 103 at 10:30 a. m. A companion on the motorcycle, John Puckett 10, also of east of Carey, is in Findlay hospital with serious injuries. Otterson and his wife, Mrs. Mildred Otterson, 43, riding with him, suffered less serious injuries.

Dwight Casteel, 20, who had been working as a mechanic at Don's Motor Sales here, died in Findlay hospital at 4 a. m. today as a result of an accident in which his automobile struck a utility pole on route 15 two miles west of Carey at 1:20 a. m. Sunday. Riding with him was Glenn Clark, 23, of Carey who is at home here under treatment for injuries which he suffered in the accident.

Collide Headon

The westbound motorcycle on which Fletcher and Puckett were riding, collided almost headon with the Otterson car, the highway patrol reported. Fletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Fletcher of east of Carey, suffered a broken neck, fractured skull, fractures of left ankle and hip, and numerous cuts and bruises.

NEW PREMIER HEADS SIAM GOVERNMENT

By The Associated Press

BANGKOK, Nov. 10—Luang Aphaiwongse was appointed premier of Siam today and a five-member privy council was named to head the government following a bloodless coup yesterday directed by Wartime Dictator Pibul Songgram.

The new privy council replaces the regency for King Phumiphon, who attains his majority next month. The monarch, who is now in Switzerland, is expected to return to Siam next month.

The privy council immediately promulgated a new constitution reviving some of the monarchial powers relinquished in 1932. Under the new constitution Siam's legislature will continue as a two-chamber body, but the members of the senate will henceforth be appointed by the king instead of being elected.

Public dissatisfaction over alleged corruption and rice hoarding under the regime of ousted Premier Thamrong Nawasuwat was said by coup leaders to be the reason for their action.

ARMISTICE DAY

As we pause on this Armistice Day to pay homage to the men who gave their lives in that first World War, let us also fervently pray that the statesmen of the world will yet work out a formula for lasting peace.

Argonne, Belleau Wood, Chateau Thierry and the final cracking of a Hindenburg line were milestones on the road to world peace. The beaches of Normandy, Naples and Tarawa; the Rapido, the Bulge, Midway, Guadalcanal, Saipan and a thousand other milestones have been erected at horrible cost on that same road.

To the men who placed those milestones, we owe every effort that can be made with honor toward lasting peace.

Department Shakeup Effected To Curb Dodging of Sales Tax

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10—A top-to-bottom shakeup of Ohio's sales tax machinery was ordered today to fight "widespread" dodging of the three per cent levy by merchants and the public in the face of expanding needs.

H. Emory Glander, state tax commissioner, announced consolidation of the 18 sections of the division of sales and excise taxes into three—an audit and assessment section, a new compliance section, and an excise section. Ralph O. Perrott, division chief, continues in his position, Glander said.

Glander outlined a five-point enforcement program to stop the leaks in the state's sales tax revenue and declared in his announcement:

"State and local governments in Ohio as elsewhere face tremendously expanded financial demands. Not only have the costs of government increased because of inflationary pressures, but there are new and pressing needs in the field of education, public health and welfare, and general governmental financing. These new needs must be met without new or increased taxes if possible. They can be met without new or increased taxes only if the tax laws now on our statute books are faithfully observed and enforced."

Although the sales tax last year yielded more than $100,000,000, as against $40,000,000 a year before the war, Glander said there were "increasing evidences of evasion" during the war years" along with failures because of the lack of efficient help in many business places.

"Unfortunately," he added, "the situation has not materially improved since the war ended. I not only receive complaints from public-spirited citizens, but other evidence in my possession shows that there are widespread violations. Many vendors negligently or wilfully fail to keep tax stamps on hand. Many vendors collect the tax and then either negligently or wilfully fail to give out stamps. Many vendors or their employes are downright insulting when purchasers ask for the stamps to which they are entitled."

Glander reported that the state had recovered $6,500,000 in sales tax evasions last year and $25,112,246 since 1942.

He announced this five-point program:

►1—A personal appeal to the 200,000 vendors in Ohio to tighten up on collecting the tax from the public and giving stamp receipts.

►2—A request to the various trade associations "to provide a program or system of self discipline among their members." He called a meeting of 10 associations for next month.

►3—A request to all citizens "to ask for stamps if they are not given to them at the time of purchase, and to report to me any violations that may occur." He reminded them that stamps may be redeemed at three per cent of their face value and added, "moreover it is the duty of every citizen to see to it that tax money goes into the state treasury rather than into the pockets of the vendor who seeks to cheat the state."

►4—An order to the audit and assessment section to speed up its program "through systematization of audit and assessment procedures."

►5—An order to the new compliance section to use all means at hand for "full and uniform law enforcement — education, suspension or revocation of vendors' licenses, or prosecution of offenders."

WORKED FOR HUGHES. On the stand at the War Investigating Committee hearing in Washington, Charles W. Perelle, former manager of the Hughes Aircraft Co., testifies that he found the firm lacked production "know-how" and was constantly beset with "conflicting authority." The executive, who said he had been paid $330,000 for 15 months' work, was the first witness at the inquiry into Hughes' war contracts.

DISTRICT MEETING OF GUILDS HELD HERE

70 from Lima Area Attend Session.

Approximately 70 persons were present Sunday when the Wesleyan Service Guilds of Methodist churches in the Lima district convened at Epworth Methodist church here in the afternoon. The Wesleyan Guild of Epworth church served as the hostess group and members were present from other groups at Prospect Street Methodist church, Marion, Lima, Bellefontaine, Mecker, Wapakoneta and Forest.

Miss LaVern Lash of the Epworth group, recently elected district secretary, presided, and gave a talk in which she urged increased interest in the work of Wesleyan Service Guilds throughout the district. She set up a system whereby points will be awarded for guild activities. The system went into effect Nov. 1 and will continue to June 1.

Miss Louise Campbell, missionary to India, was guest speaker. A daughter of missionaries, she has lived in India 29 years and has been serving as principal of a school in Sironcha, India.

Mrs. E. E. Katterheinrich of New Knoxville, O., district president of the Women's Society of Christian Service, was a guest and gave a brief talk in which she complimented the Guilds of the district on the fine work which they do and urged them to expand. The Wesleyan Service Guild is the young women's department of the W.S.C.S. of the church.

The prelude, opening the program, was by Miss Elizabeth Pace, a member of Epworth Guild, and devotions were conducted by Miss Mary Jo Stafford, also of Epworth group. The welcome was by Miss Mary Heininger, president of the Epworth Guild, and several songs were sung by the group with Miss Rita Van Meter as leader and Miss Pace at the piano. A piano solo was presented by Miss Pace and the meeting closed with prayer by Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor of Epworth church.

A tea followed the meeting and Miss Heininger and Miss Stafford poured at a table centered with a bouquet of flowers and lighted with candles.

JOHN E. UNCAPHER

WARREN J. BASTIAN

"Youth" creates beauty of service, detail of preparation, and naturalness

Modern youth is creating a new beauty in the art of funeral directing. They seem to be more understanding and more eager to beautify this last important gesture to those bereaved.

John E. Uncapher, the senior member, has realized his boyhood dream to some day be at the head of his own funeral home. While serving as helper to Mr. Boyd back in High School days John conceived this dream. On graduation he entered Cleveland College of Mortuary Science, apprenticed here in Marion with one of our oldest and largest funeral homes. In November 1937 he joined the staff of The Boyd Funeral Home and after receiving license to embalm in 1939, in 1941 he became a partner of the firm. In 1942 he was married and now has a young daughter.

Warren J. Bastian, like John Uncapher pursued the same course, dreamed the same dream in the very same surroundings. Upon returning from 4 years of war service overseas he entered Cleveland College of Mortuary Science, interned and served apprentice in Greater Cleveland and Central Ohio funeral homes.

Warren is the only local boy to have prepared for burial our boys who died in line of battle overseas. This has given him a rich knowledge of brotherly love and understanding only earned through living experiences as our boys did over there. He returned to Marion and to join John late in '45.

In July '46 John Uncapher and Warren Bastian formed their fine partnership and assumed sole ownership of this charming funeral home. This interesting background seems to weld a strong foundation for directorship of the best in funeral services for many years to come.

They will always be happy to have you stop and get acquainted with them, and feel free to make any inquiries without obligation at any time.

Here, the most complete detail of service need cost no more and many times less.

UNCAPHER - BASTIAN FUNERAL DIRECTORS

"That in whatsoever house we shall enter it shall be for the benefit and comfort of the bereaved."

Funeral services will be held Monday evening at 3 o'clock at the Snyder funeral home in charge of Rev. Norman Riedesel, pastor of First Presbyterian church. The body will be shipped to Wilmington where services will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Hearn funeral home. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery in Wilmington.

STYLE NOTE (1870). Film Star Jane Russell is helped into her 1870 undies by designer Mary K. Dodson in Hollywood. Before the ladies feel it's another return to an old style like the present long-skirt trend, an explanation is in order. She'll wear them in a new movie.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS WIN DECLAMATION CONTESTS

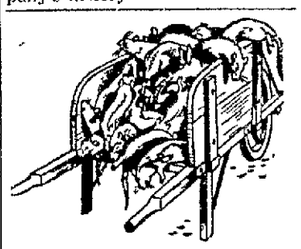
Winners of three Prince of Peace declamation contests held in Marion county Sunday night were LaRue and New Bloomington high school girls. At two contests held in LaRue, Misses Dwila Harvey and Demeral Albert won first places and at New Bloomington, Miss Virgie James was awarded first place. Each received a bronze medal offered by the Ohio Council of Churches to local contest winners, and will have opportunity to compete in a contest later for a silver medal.

The contest won by Miss Harvey was held in the LaRue Methodist church where Miss Jean Warner won alternate rating. Miss Albert won in the contest at the LaRue Baptist church where Miss Mildred Monk won second place. At the New Bloomington contest, held in the Methodist church, Miss Jean Harrison is alternate winner. A total of nine high school students took part in the contests at LaRue. Winners of local competition each year have opportunity to speak in county contests. Final Prince of Peace state contest, in which winners are awarded cash and college scholarships, will be held in Columbus early next year.

C. & O. SETS ALL-TIME CARLOADING RECORD

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10 — The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. established an all-time carloading record in October with a total of 234,640 cars loaded on its own line and received from connections, President Robert J. Bowman announced today. This compared with a previous high of 232,543 cars set in May of this year.

Previously, the C. & O. announced that during October it had shattered existing coal loading records on three successive days in the week ended Oct. 31 and in the same week also handled the highest number of daily revenue carloads of freight in the company's history.



Wheelbarrow load of dead rats

Imagine—a wheelbarrow load! That's what a farmer picked up after he'd baited the premises with Anturat, the new, modern Dr. Hess rat killer.

Anturat is made especially for farm use. Its killing agent is antu whose unusual properties as a rat killer were discovered during the war. Anturat is less toxic to livestock and poultry than most commonly used rat poisons.

Anturat can be used either as a baiting poison or a tracking poison. To use it as a tracking poison, you just sprinkle it in rat holes and runs.

The rats pick up Anturat on their feet. They lick their feet and get a killing dose of the poison.

It costs $2 a year to keep a rat. Rats spread disease and filth. Kill them with Anturat. Get the 8-oz. farm-size package.

LT. BETTY WILLIMAN TRANSFERRED BY ARMY

Lt. Betty Jean Williman, who has been on the staff of the Salvation Army here for the last several months, has been transferred to Hamilton where she will be an assistant officer, it was announced today by Adjutant Mary Nisiewicz. She will be succeeded here by Captain Dolores Mae Denman who has been serving the Hamilton corps.

Captain Denman was graduated from the Piqua High school in 1943 and was commissioned in June, 1944, at the Salvation Army Training college in New York City. She was stationed at Athens and Bucyrus before joining the Hamilton staff. She will take over her duties here next week.

Lt. Williman's farewell will be held Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at the Salvation Army citadel.

FIRE IN MILK TRUCK CAUSES $500 DAMAGE

An estimated $500 loss resulted to a milk truck set on fire by a gasoline leak at 10:05 a. m. today. The truck, owned by John Barkley of near Marion, was hauling milk to Marion. The fire was put out by firemen from Central station at the edge of town on route 4.

When workers were soldering gutters on the Post Office at 3:46 yesterday afternoon, a blow torch set a window on fire, but no damage resulted, Fire Chief Sifritt reported.

SENT TO JUVENILE BUREAU

Two boys, aged 14 and 15 years, were remanded to the bureau of juvenile research by juvenile court today after admitting the theft of two bicycles. They were returned to the county detention home until such time as they can be admitted to the bureau at Columbus. They were taken into custody Thursday night by city patrolmen. According to their testimony the boys stripped the bicycles and took the parts to fix up their own bicycles. One youth had been in juvenile court on three previous charges and it was the second time for the other.

OBSERVERS TO OVERSEE CHECK

Rev. Fr. Spickerman of Marion, Galion Minister Named for Union, Company.

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 10—The UAW-CIO struggle for recognition as bargaining agent for North Electric company employes was marked over the weekend by the appointment of "observers" who with a third intermediary will conduct a cross check of the UAW pledge cards to determine union representation under the agreement reached ending the strike.

R. K. McBerty, a North company vice president, announced he appointment today of the company's representative to conduct the check. Rev. Norman R. Somerville, pastor of the First Methodist church at Galion.

At the same time, UAW representative Edward J. Duck announced that the union had selected as its intermediary Very Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, V. F., of St. Mary church in Marion.

The two representatives will select an arbiter to assist in the cross-check of UAW membership pledge cards as of Aug. 19 against the company payroll, in the question of union representation at the plant.

Union Claims Majority

The union has claimed a majority of production workers as of the Aug. 19 date, the day prior to the onset of the 75-day strike, declared by the UAW to have been called for recognition and a contract including a wage increase and better working conditions.

Meanwhile, the independent union, formed a week ago Saturday, has drawn up by-laws and constitution, and notified attorney Edward Myers of Bucyrus that it is ready to file with the NLRB for bargaining agent of units at the North Electric Membership, composed of hourly-rate workers at the plant, was estimated at 340.

Officers Chosen

This union claims that formation of the group was legal and proper in every way, and that the company has no part in its formation, and officers were chosen by a majority interested in starting a local union.

A meeting held Saturday night in Maccabee hall here by Labor's Joint Committee, a new group of workers from approximately six other industrial plants of Galion, was attended by more than 200 persons.

HODSON ELECTED TO COUNTY BOARD

LaRue Man Defeats O. E. Hamilton by Nine Votes.

Final figure on the election vote in Marion county stands at 12,982, according to the county election board. Of this total 8,872 represents the city of Marion while 4,110 is the final figure for the balance of the county.

This is slightly less than 1,000 votes more than were cast in the off-year election in 1945 when a city vote of 9,157 and a county vote of 2,669 totaled 12,026. The gain this year resulted from a county vote which increased by better than 1,000 while the Marion vote total dropped nearly 300.

The 1946 election, however, saw a total vote of 16,234 with 11,054 city votes and 5,177 county votes cast.

In a close election for the second seat open on the county board of education, Harold Hodson of LaRue defeated O. E. Hamilton of north of Marion by nine votes, the outcome being delayed for several days while outlying school districts filed election returns.

Emmett L. Trout of near Claridon whose current term expires and who sought reelect on was returned to the board receiving 1,764 votes to Hodson's 1,559 and Hamilton's 1,550. Hodson succeeds W. S. Guthrie of near LaRue.

Annie Got Her Hammer and Sickle

ROMANIA'S one-woman revolution, Anna Pauker, has been made foreign minister, and the other female firebrands of Red ruin can take hope. Under the Communists, apparently, a niche has been reserved for the type. Wherever the conspiracy is active, shrill females are to be heard hollering in the front line.

Mme. Pauker has earned her merit badge for outstanding work in preparing the ground for revolution. At 51 she gets credit for the political sabotage that has apparently delivered Romania to Russia without a hitch. She is a major element in the larger conspiracy to deliver all of Europe to Russia.

Among the women who have found in the Communist movement an opportunity for the expression of their political convictions she is possibly the outstanding one at the moment. Her prestige as a member of the Romanian cabinet will be an inspiration to all the members of her sex who have laid aside the distaff and taken up the hammer and sickle.

In this country, where nearly every evidence of the conspiracy at work includes at least one female figure eager to be photographed in an attitude of anger, the lady Reds can take hope. Anna Pauker has won her hammer and sickle.

Reliable Remedy

THE senate-house committee that went to Europe last summer to study the problem of foreign-information programs sponsored by the United States is going to report in their favor as aids of the Marshall plan. This amounts to saying it will take more than taxpayers' dollars to put Europe on its feet; the Europeans also need to know something about the country behind the dollars.

The reason there has been a problem about the so-called "Voice of America" program is instinctive fear of government propaganda. No citizen of sane mind trusts any group of federal jobholders to monkey with ideological dynamite, on the sound assumption that eternal vigilance against that sort of thing is the bargain price of popular liberty. But it has been obvious from the beginning of the debate over the government's right to disseminate information that the United States could not remain mute. There was too much at stake. In the battle for men's minds going on abroad, the United States couldn't afford to lose by default.

This is plainer to the congressmen who went abroad to look at things for themselves than it was in Washington. That old reliable remedy for ignorance—a little information—has worked again.

Lively Ghost

TOM CLARK, the U. S. attorney general, got off a nifty recently that made up for some of the sour doubts about America's ability to meet the challenge of the more abundant lifers, Kremlin branch.

All but a handful of the people who settled this country, he pointed out, came here of their free will because they were looking for a better deal. Then he declared that if all gates were open today, "half the world would be depopulated." There would be a rush for the United States.

Of course, no one will ever know, because it can't happen. But a public opinion poll—where would you choose to spend the rest of your life if you could go anywhere you wanted to go?—might give a hint. Aside from a few thousand red hots who'd have to tell a fib to save face, the United States wouldn't lose even a theoretical soul. But one hates to think what some of the supposedly satisfied citizens of nations whose politicians are trying for the death of capitalism so they can run the United States would say.

Molotov has just told the Russians again that capitalism is dead, but if so it's one of the liveliest corpses in the opinion of the world's common people that ever haunted a dictatorship.

He Was a Vote-Getter

THE death of Councilman Peter V. Cacchione of Brooklyn ends the career of one of the two avowed Communists who have been elected to public office in the United States. The other is the incumbent Harlem councilman, Benjamin Davis.

Cacchione was a formidable vote-getter in Brooklyn, and his election wasn't dependent on the proportional representation system which New York voted out in last week's election. In an unsuccessful campaign he received 25,000 write-in votes and in 1943 his first-choice vote surpassed all other candidates.

Communists were the most ardent supporters of proportional representation in New York because it gave them a chance to worm their way into offices where otherwise they couldn't have had a show. Cacchione's record proved that a Communist can be elected to office in an open contest if he has what the voters want.

When Alaric sacked Rome in 80 A.D., 3,000 pounds of pepper was part of the ransom for the city.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Tom Dewey Speaks on Vital Subject.

IT MUST be remembered that there is no such thing as a Marshall plan for American aid to Europe. The most Mr. Marshall has done, thus far, has been to suggest that the Europeans draw up a plan, which they did in the form of the Bevin report.

Thus, Tom Dewey may claim the credit of having been the first leader of either political party, including the government, to propose a comprehensive plan which undoubtedly has the support of Senator Vandenberg and John Foster Dulles. Emanating from such quarters, the Dewey plan takes on official character as representing the Republican position. As this congress is Republican, this first statement of one of the two chief contenders for the presidential nomination within that party takes on primary significance.

Governor Dewey chose a curious audience for so serious a pronouncement. It was a private dinner given by B. C. Forbes in honor of the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of his magazine. Present were most of the top business men of the country. He laid it down as axiomatic that aid to Europe and China is no longer a matter of choice; it is a matter of self-defense against a vicious enemy.

He said, ". . . We have no choice today whether or not to act in this emergency. It is unthinkable that after a successful war at staggering cost in blood and resources, we should now stop and surrender the fruits of victory . . ."

Wouldn't Be Comfortable

He did not even premise aid upon probable success to our efforts nor upon potential value received. "If," he said, "as a mere 140 million people, we found ourselves in the midst of a conquered world, from France to China, we should find more than a billion people in an armed camp under the control of an aggressive dictatorship arrayed against us." In terms of dollars, such a condition would cost us in national defense alone, a great deal more than any program of aid to Europe and it would cost us that annually for years to come. In terms of living standards, we should sink to a level not seen by any living person in this country. In terms of our liberties, I find it difficult to see how we could avoid a degree of economic control which would cut the very heart out of our system."

He then proposed a plan which would require the governments that receive our aid to use the proceeds from sales ". . . to develope the productive resources of the nations so as more speedily to make them self-supporting. They should also be used to develop new productive resources out of which might later come the means of at least partial return on our investment through acquiring important strategic materials needed in our own defense." Capital goods would be financed by straight loans under an authority which would be under a genuine bi-partisan board, the chairman of which ". . . should be an individual of outstanding ability, equipped by training and experience to assume the enormous responsibilities involved and entitled by reputation to the full confidence of the American people."

Returns China To Scene

Having proposed this, Dewey asked of congress a clear and understandable statement of policy with regard to the assistance for freedom-loving countries. Then he did something wholly unanticipated. He brought China, which President Truman had abandoned, back into the arena of American affairs. Because of this, congress may demand the release of the Wedemeyer report which General Marshall has smothered in line with the policy pursued by both presidents Roosevelt and Truman. The abandonment of Chiang Kai-Shek by the Truman administration, after his betrayal by Roosevelt at Yalta, is one of the major tragedies in a fumbling foreign policy. Dewey, having revived that issue, forces it upon his own party in congress and upon the administration.

The practical measures in the Dewey plan need to be studied and fitted into the framework of our capabilities. But this much is clear. As a candidate he has assumed leadership in the foreign field, fitted up a program and stated it with due accent on its domestic implications, and has thrown it as a challenge to President Truman. That was like a public declaration that his hat is in the ring.

Sheds No Tears at Beulah's Departure

Beulah Overell, recently acquitted of charges of being a self-made orphan, has dropped her journalism studies with the explanation that she "saw enough newspapermen during the trial."

For my part, the feeling is mutual.

Somehow, I have never been overjoyed at the thought that the electric chair's loss was journalism's gain.

Moreover, if her calaboose billets-doux to Bud were an accurate criterion, Beulah's literary abilities lean more to the sinful than scintillating, she apparently having learned her letters on a back fence.

In fact, as far as I am concerned, Beulah's renouncing journalism is the biggest break for the newspaper profession since Orson Welles went back to radio.

PRAGUE

IN VIENNA, in the midst of Soviet occupation armies, the Austrian political leaders swear to fight for their independence to the last. But here in Prague, which the Soviets can only occupy by a naked act of war, the non-Communists gloomily ask, "What can we do?" or plead for impractical rescue parties from the west. Such are the commonest reactions to the increasing Communist terror in Czechoslovakia. Consequently the eventual death of Czech freedom seems grimly probable.

None the less, although the existence of the terror is quite tangible, there is still freedom in Czechoslovakia. The press is uncontrolled, and two or three brave editors still dare to speak out. The political parties still operate without hindrance, except for the threat of such attacks as the arrest of the Slovak Democrats. And since this is the only country in Europe using the American system of mechanically secret balloting, next spring's elections, if they are held at all, will be excessively hard to fix. Why, then, must freedom die? It need not, is the answer. It probably will for three reasons. First, the Communists have here their strongest genuine mass base in Europe—about 40 per cent of the voters—because they have been permitted to take credit for the Czech program of nationalization, planning and social welfare, which has greatly benefited the average man. Second, through their Socialist stooge, Dr. Fierlinger, they have thus far commanded the Socialist parliamentary vote.

Made To Order

This gives them 51 per cent majority in the chamber. And third, the other parties are hopelessly divided, and a large proportion of their leaders are visibly congealed with fear. This is a situation made to order for the Communists, who have all the instruments of governmental power, like the police, already in their hands.

Two dangers loom ahead of them, however. The most popular, indeed the most loved, man in Czechoslovakia is President Benes. His labors for his country have worn him out. Because he recently suffered from an impediment in his speech it is generally supposed that he has had a stroke. Nevertheless, he is one man whose courage has not failed.

His views may be gauged from a story of a recent episode between him and Dr. Fierlinger. After the Marshall plan episode, word came from Moscow that the Socialists and Communists must merge. Fierlinger promptly issued a declaration of Socialist solidarity with the Communists. He then tried to see Benes. At first he was forbidden access to the ill old man. But he insisted. Benes received him, and told him in unvarnished words that he could no longer be regarded as a loyal Czech. Benes added that those who were seeking to destroy Czech freedom had best watch their step. Fierlinger blustered that the mass of the people would have their way, by force if necessary, and retired in some confusion.

Benes To Fight, If Able

This episode is now widely known in the inner circle of Czech politics. It will be angrily denied, of course, but is certainly authentic. It can only mean that Benes will fight the incipient dictatorship, if his health lasts.

And besides his vast prestige, Benes has the powers of the presidency and the radio at his command. Second, Fierlinger's own position with the Socialists is being challenged. It well might be, in view of his record. He was Czech ambassador to Moscow before the war. He was expelled from the Soviet capital to please the obscene von Ribbentrop. Yet he gladly returned as the emissary of the Czech government in exile. Even in 1944, his national loyalty was already dubious. At that time, warned by the Czech military mission, Benes tried to recall him to London, ostensibly for consultation. Even then Fierlinger felt secure enough to reply with impudence that he was too busy and too unwell. Later the first post-war Czech government was formed at a conference in the Soviet Union with the Czech Communists. It was Fierlinger who took the lead in persuading and intimidating his colleagues into yielding to the Communists many key posts.

This short sharp-looking man with shifty eyes and a talent for survival is not popular with the liberty-loving rank and file of Socialists. He has at last been challenged on the Communist issue by another Socialist leader, Majer. He may be displaced at the forthcoming Socialist congress. If Fierlinger is defeated, if Benes asserts his influence, and if the other non-Communist parties unite in self-defense, there may yet be hope for the liberties of this republic. But three "ifs," of which two are decidedly uncertain, add up to cruel odds.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Nov. 10, 1937.

England was mourning the death of James Ramsey MacDonald, 71, Britain's first Labor prime minister and the first prime minister to visit the United States, which occurred aboard a South American-bound ship the previous night.

First partial reports of the 1937 Marion County Red Cross roll call, made at a short meeting of division chairmen, listed $1,671.45. The goal, to be reached by Nov. 25, was $5,655.00.

The Nine to Twelve Dance club opened the season with a dance in the Elks' club. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Penry were chairmen of the host and hostess committee and assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Newell Minard, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwemley.

Mrs. Samuel Wolfinger was elected president of the San Souci club at a meeting at the home of Mrs. W. T. Owen of the Edison road.

Two representatives of the Rockefeller Foundation, internationally known public health agency of New York were here to observe the operation of the Marion county health department.

Mrs. Clair Williams, Mrs. Jack Danner and Mrs. Charles Ulrich were welcomed as new members at a meeting of Ohio Eta chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, at Hotel Harding.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Nov. 10, 1927.

Miss Marion Templeton of Hollywood, formerly of Marion, was receiving considerable recognition as a screen actress and on the stage. For several months she had been appearing in the cast of "The Devil's Plumb Tree," starring Ruth Chatterton.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Pence of Ballentine avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Stout of East Church street returned from a week's motor trip to Indianapolis and southern Indiana.

The Captain William Hendricks chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the home of Mrs. Frank H. King on South State street. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. J. V. Wilson, Mrs. F. E. Tibbals and Mrs. Edson L. Bush.

Misses Florence Foreman and Velma Holter were hostesses to the young women employes of the Erie offices here at a dinner bridge given at the Foreman home on Park boulevard.

Warns Against German Split

By Walter Lippmann

IT IS necessary to begin by realizing that the Germans have already gone underground. I cannot speak about the Russian and the French zones. But in the British and the American zones the gap is rapidly widening between the official appearance and the German reality. The Allied military authorities continue to reign, but more and more in the interior life of Germany they do not govern.

Nor can it be said, I think, that as our authority recedes, it is being exercised by the Germans we are sponsoring. It is so probable as to be almost certain that these German officials are, as under any military occupation by a foreign conqueror, either unrepresentative men whose positions depend entirely upon our support, or they are men who feel that as patriotic Germans they must appease the conquerors in order to deceive them. In individual cases it is very hard to know which is which. But that things are not what they seem is, in my view, the first thing to understand about Germany.

For example: In March of this year the British made a study of how, during a period of 12 weeks, food rationing worked in 20 large towns of the German state of North Rhine-Westphalia. This is the Ruhr region. They used the device of sampling, much as in the Gallup and Roper polls. During these 12 weeks the British occupying authorities had delivered to the local German officials enough food to meet the official ration of 1,550 calories for each holder of a ration card. The investigators made a check to find out how much of the food which the British had provided actually reached the German consumer through legal channels, that is to say on their ration cards. They found that on the average for all 20 towns the actual ration legally received was much lower than the official ration: It fell as low as 740 calories and rose as high as 1,170 calories.

Food Goes to Black Market

Thus much of the food, which the British had imported or had collected from German farmers disappeared after the German officials got hold of it and before it was distributed to the consumers. It went, of course, into the black market, which is the principal market in our two zones. There the Germans who had money, or rather cigarets, liquor and tangible goods, supplemented their official rations—nobody has the least idea by how much—at the expense of the Germans who were too poor and too helpless to take care of themselves.

The study of the Ruhr towns shows that the German officials to whom the British delivered the food must themselves have connived at and participated in the diversion of so much of it to the black market.

If that is what happens with food, which is the main preoccupation of the Allied and the German authorities, it is a reasonable assumption that the disparity between the official and the actual is even greater elsewhere. Recently in one town the resistance of the German workers to the dismantling of a torpedo plant was traced to the mayor and the chief of police—both of them ostensibly selected carefully by the occupying authorities.

But even more important in the long run—because it bears directly on what Senator Vandenberg and Mr. Byrnes are saying about a separate peace with western Germany—is the political attitude of the German party leaders. I did not see Dr. Kurt Schumacher, the chairman of the Social Democratic party and the leading candidate for prime minister of the new western German state we hear so much about. He was in the United States on a visit which was facilitated by the state department—a visit which seems to have inspired him, according to Mr. Delbert Clark of the New York Times, to reverse everything he has been saying about German unity and to become the advocate of a partitioned Germany.

For Separate Peace

But though I missed seeing Dr. Schumacher, I saw several of his more important colleagues both in politics and in the trade unions. And I have no hesitation in saying that if Dr. Schumacher is now for a separate western German state and a separate peace, he has either decided that a bird in the hand—which is to be premier under Allied occupation—is worth two in the bush, or he is taking us for a ride.

For if there is anything that is certain in this world it is that no German politician, who hopes to have a following among the broad masses, will ever, or can ever, accept the partition of Germany. On this point there is no discernible difference of view from the Communist left to the extreme right. That is why the most effective theme of German Communist propaganda is "German unity," with the reminder that only by a deal with the Russians can the unity of Germany, as Germans mean it, be restored.

For that reason among others, I hope we shall not make the mistake of setting up a German government in the British-American zones and of making a separate peace with it, and of giving it sovereignty.

For the result of that can only be that the western German state will then have to negotiate that treaty of peace with eastern Germany, with Russia, Poland Czechoslovakia, Austria and Yugoslavia which we find ourselves unable to negotiate.

If, as Senator Vandenberg suggests, the Council of Foreign Ministers is adjourned sine die after a deadlock at the November meeting, this will mean that the places now occupied by Mr. Marshall and Mr. Bevin will be taken by Dr. Schumacher, or Herr Jakob Kaiser, of the Christian Democrats, or whoever it is who becomes the chief of the western German state. The negotiations between the western Germans and the eastern Germans and with the Soviet orbit may at first be secret. But that there will be negotiation is unavoidable.

The Once Over

The 23,567th Sheep

The sleeping pill situation is a problem over America. New York, where it is harder to sleep than anywhere else on earth, has just put into effect stringent laws making it harder to get help. Sleeping pills and medicines may now be sold only under stiff restrictions.

* * *

A prescription from your doctor is necessary and no refills may ever be extended beyond a three-month period.

* * *

This strikes us as most severe. Who can get to sleep in New York or any big city in less than three months?

* * *

Even if we could take away the whistles of the night club and apartment house doormen it would take two months.

* * *

The law is called the "anti-barbituates" law. Barbituate is from the Latin "urates," meaning "leaping lambs," and "bitis," meaning "away with." (The "bar" is just put in in case the drug store is closed.—Ed. note.)

* * *

New York's health commissioner and its lawmakers are very proud of the new ban. We hope they get their just deserts and have as much trouble sleeping as the rest of us.

* * *

The commissioner says that one person a day is hospitalized in New York from overdoses of sleeping pills. That isn't bad. There are seven million people in New York. The percentage of light sleepers getting into trouble is greater in Squeedunk and Horseneck Hollow, where a druggist is allowed to have a heart.

* * *

"It's all dead wrong," declared Elmer Twitchell today. (Elmer, who has always been a light sleeper, hasn't been able to get a wink since the ban went into effect. He isn't a pill taker, but the thought that he can't get one if he wished keeps him awake.)

* * *

"A druggist can get a $500 fine and a year in the bastille for selling them except under rigid regulations. This has complicated the whole sleeping situation. Up to now it was only the customers who lay awake all night. Now the druggists can't sleep."

* * *

Mr. Twitchell explained that he counted over 23,567 sheep last night, all in vain. "All but thirty-two of them had on policemen's hats. Thirty of these thirty-two had no police hats, but had warrants. Only two of the 23,567 sheep were cooperative and of the non-snooping type," he said sadly.

* * *

"The whole thing is cockeyed," he declared. "A guy is kept awake all night by a tuna fish sandwich, a clam chowder or a pink and green soda he buys in a drug store, and the city won't let the drug store sell him something to put him to sleep!"

YALE announces that it operated last year at a loss of half a million dollars. Can it be that our educators are losing money on the whole proposition?

"The ICC has been asked to permit a fee of 15 cents per package or bag carried by railroad porters. The present rate is 10 cents. Until a few years ago there was no specific charge." —News item.

Not Even a Dent

By Truman Twill

Be patient, advises one of the nation's leading designers. Life is being made simpler every day by better gadgets. The household annoyances of today eventually will be eliminated by tomorrow. Hah.

We will give this leading designer 100 to 1 and throw in a pair of tickets to the football game of his choice if he can convince us that a single one of the following household annoyances will be wiped out by a better gadget:

The light in the closet that burns out and doesn't get replaced because it's out of sight and out of mind, except for a few minutes a day when the man of the house wants to find a pair of pants or a pair of shoes.

The tendency of empty tin cans to get stranded somewhere between the point where they become empty and the point where they are supposed to be collected in a trash bin, said cans becoming booby traps for foolish pedestrians.

The habit of other members of the household to make lighthearted use of combs, brushes, nail files, toothpaste, hair oil, shaving implements and so on that do not belong to them—then to leave them where they don't belong.

The mysterious disappearance of magazines at the precise moment when they must be read or never read at all (so it seems). The missing magazines cannot be found by diligent searching, though a few hours later they pop up in a conspicuous place, where they must have been all the time.

The disintegration of the Sunday paper, which begins at the instant it is taken in at the front door Sunday morning and proceeds without interruption until by the time the head of the house wants to read about the Saturday football games no one can recall ever having noticed the sports section.

The practice of turning on the talking furniture and letting it talk and squawk for hours on end with nobody listening to it but the dog, who is vaguely puzzled by the hill-billy moaning and the whine of organ music which stir sleeping memories of remote jungle experiences.

The unaccountable impulse of diverse members of a household to come to simultaneous decisions to take baths at the same instant, precipitating a jam that leaves all victims irritable and resentful of an inexcusable intrusion on one of the most personal of all household rites.

The irregularity of retirement time among moderns that causes silence to be requested by members of various ages going to bed beginning at a little after 8 and dragging on until the small hours of the morning, when the most vigorous of the adults finally gives up noisily and calls it a day.

More power to the nation's leading designers but all the gadgets they can design from now until 2000 A. D. won't even make a dent in the household annoyances that drive human beings nuts.

Hormone Data

By International News Service

NEW YORK—A Yale scientist recently announced new discoveries about the control of body tissues by tiny glands—findings which may pave the way for expanded medical use of vaccines, control of allergies, and resistance to infectious diseases. Associate Professor Abraham White reported that for the first time investigators in the Yale School of Medicine have been able to answer the question as to how hormones of the adrenal cortex (walnut-sized glands located on top of the kidneys) control the amount of anti-bodies in lymphocyte cells, several thousand of which are present in each drop of blood.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE SET FOR NOV. 26

The annual union Thanksgiving service this year, to be held at First Presbyterian church Wednesday night, Nov. 26, will be devoted to the theme of relief of suffering abroad.

Guest speaker will be Rev James Flint of Boston, recently returned from a tour of inspection of war ravaged areas in Europe For the cause of relief, each person attending the service is asked to bring a gift of shoes, Rev. Eldred Johnston, chairman of the sponsoring social action committee of the Marion County Council of Churches, stated.

It is urged that people begin gathering together this item of clothing for donation, and that those who cannot attend the service take the shoes to their own churches where the pairs will be picked up. These will then be forwarded to the proper channel for shipment to needy places

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Control of Bleeding Tooth Extraction.

In the past, one of the great difficulties of brain operations was the lack of a good method to control bleeding. Because of the delicacy and importance of brain tissue, methods used in operations on other parts of the body would not serve. During the past few years, however, the two substances which play the largest role in the normal clotting of the blood—fibrin and thrombin—have been extracted from human blood, and successfully used for this purpose.

More recently, the same method has been adapted to the needs of dentistry. Bleeding often occurs during or after the extraction of a tooth and in some instances it is prolonged.

In order to control this troublesome type of bleeding three dentists, Drs. Gwinn, Grimm and Ferber, first place the thrombin in a salt solution and then immerse fibrin foam, which is sponge-like, in the solution. The fibrin foam shrinks in size as soon as it soaks up the thrombin preparation. These pieces of fibrin foam are put on a piece of sterile gauze until ready for use.

In cases of patients in whom there was a history of previous prolonged bleeding from the wound after tooth extraction, sulfathiazole powder was dusted around the margins of the tooth socket. Then a piece of the fibrin foam soaked in the thrombin solution, just large enough to close the opening of the socket, was pressed over the socket.

No attempt was made to press it deeply into the tooth socket. One or two plain surgical stitches were put in to hold the fibrin foam in place. Then a small piece of gauze covered with petrolatum was placed over the socket and the patient was instructed to put gentle pressure on it for two or three minutes.

In cases in which bleeding persisted after removal of the tooth, the same sort of procedure was followed. If bleeding persisted during the operation, the fibrin foam with the thrombin solution was put in place and kept there until the bleeding stopped. If bleeding occurred again before the operation was finished, the foam was applied again.

When bleeding persisted for a long time after the operation, the thrombin was left in place for five to ten minutes and gentle pressure put on it. In some cases, it was necessary to pack the fibrin foam into the tooth socket.

In thirty-one cases treated in this way the bleeding was successfully checked in all except one instance. It would seem that this method of treating bleeding, which is simple and easy to carry out, may soon come into wider use wherever it is necessary to stop bleeding.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. B.: Is there anything I can do to prevent boils?

Answer: In the treatment of boils, several things may be done. The general resistance of the body should be built up by getting plenty of fresh air, sunshine, and outdoor exercises, as well as by eating a proper diet.

Covering the boils with an antiseptic ointment, such as ammoniated mercury, may also prevent the development of further boils. The application of dressings of glycerin and alcohol to the boils is also beneficial. Certain drugs taken by mouth may aid in overcoming the infection.

The use of X-ray may be necessary in resistent cases. Ultraviolet light may also be of value in increasing the general resistance of the skin. Penicillin treatment may be of value. At times injection of a vaccine made from the killed germs causing the boils is useful.

⅛ tsp. salt

Scrub fruit. Cut through peel from stem to blossom end and pull off. Cut into thin strips with scissors. Cover with 1 quart water, boil 10 minutes and drain. Cut fruit into thin slices, discarding seeds and grapefruit core. Combine with peel, measure, add twice as much water and boil rapidly about 30 minutes until peel is tender. Measure and add equal amount of sugar. Add salt. Stir over heat until sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly about 25 minutes until thick and clear. Stir towards end of cooking to prevent scorching. Let stand half hour. Stir again. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal at once. About 3 pints.

4 TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS REPORTED BY POLICE

No Motorists Injured in Weekend Mishaps.

Four traffic accidents were reported to police over the weekend. There were no injuries.

The first occurred at 1:30 p. m. Saturday on Holmes place at the McDaniels garage. John S. Underhill of 345 East Fairground street killed his motor while driving his car up the ramp. The brakes failed to hold and the car coasted backward into the street colliding with a parked car owned by Dan Howell of 1006 West Center street.

At 5 p. m. also on Holmes place, Robert B. Weiss of 330 Bellefontaine avenue backed his car out of the alley to the rear of the Sears store and collided with a car driven by Richard L. Water of 418 Olney avenue.

At 8 p. m. at the intersection of East Center and Charles street an accident involved cars driven by Esther Mae Schiefer of 198 Chicago avenue and Pearl L. Redmon of Prospect. The report states that the Redmon car traveling north on Charles street collided with the rear of the Schiefer car while making a left turn on to East Center street.

Reuben T. Smith, 45, of near Marion escaped injury when his pickup truck was sideswiped and knocked over the curb at the intersection of North State and East Fairground streets at 10:09 p. m. Saturday by a car driven by Carl A. Kull of near Marion. According to the police report, Smith was traveling north on North State street with but a single fog light showing on the front of his truck and failed to pause at the stop sign at the intersection. The Kull car going west on East Fairground street and the Smith truck collided, the latter spinning around and coming to rest on the northwest corner after knocking over a street marker.

"New investments," he added, "are more important to the future of the United States than the comparatively small amount of taxes which the country obtains by running the rates to exorbitant levels. It is high time that someone in public life said so. Because it is true."

His tax program would be backed by an anti-monopoly drive—since neither "monopoly capital nor corrupt capital is dynamic capital."

High prices, he said, should be met by officially-encouraged voluntary boycotts of specific "bad examples" for limited periods; higher production, consumer credit controls, and coordination of purchases for domestic and foreign accounts.

Stassen favored a federal appropriation of $1,000,000,000 a year for mass housing [illegible] clearance, and redevelopment [illegible] modernization of cities. He also urged extension of rent controls for at least two more years, with increases removed in 60 days on any unit or more than two average rooms occupied by one individual. The latter, he said, would give more maximum use of existing units.

Taft-Hartley Changes

He said the Taft-Hartley act on the whole "is a good law," but goes too far in three respects. He urged amendment of the provisions barring unions from making political expenditures and contributions, requiring anti-Communist affidavits from union officers, and prohibiting renewal of union shop contracts unless approved by a majority vote of all employes.

FORFEITS $25 BOND

Donald C. Healey, 25, of Upper Sandusky forfeited bond of $25 when he failed to appear in municipal court at 10 a. m. today charged with speeding. He was arrested by the state patrol on Route 23 north of Marion at 11:39 p. m. Saturday.

JAP FLOATING MINE BLOWN UP. Discovered by a Coast Guard beach patrol, a Jap mine which floated to shore at Willapa Bay, Wash., is inspected (top) by Lt. (jg) Don Winslow or the demolition squad before it was detonated. Below, the blast lights the sky, leaving a crater approximately 14-feet wide. The mine, 36 inches in diameter, held 350 pounds of explosives.

Drifting Jap Mines Menace Pacific Ships

ASTORIA, Ore., Nov. 10—Merchant shipping in the North Pacific and off the Washington and Oregon coasts was alerted today for wartime Japanese mines floating in the sea lanes.

One mine was located 25 miles off Unquina bay, Ore., 100 miles south of here, and the Coast Guard Cutter Bonham was dispatched to shell and exploded it. Ten mines have grounded or been sighted on the northwest coastal areas in less than a week.

The Japanese explosives have floated with the Japan current across the north Pacific to American waters, paralleling busy coastwise shipping lanes southward from British Columbia, Seattle and Portland.

Three mines were detonated within 12 hours Saturday on the Oregon coast.

TURKEY LAUNCHES RADIO DEFENSE AGAINST RUSSIA

By The Associated Press

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 10 Radio Anakara, official voice of Turkey, has opened a propaganda counteroffensive against Russia, forsaking the purely defensive role.

In a broadcast beamed across the Soviet-dominated Balkans and in all Balkan languages, radio Ankara declared last night that "the Russian people are moaning in the throes of misery and hunger."

3,500 HEAR MISS TRUMAN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 10—An appreciative audience of 3,500 gave Miss Margaret Truman four curtain calls during a singing appearance yesterday with the Oklahoma City Symphony orchestra but a music critic said "the concert as a whole was not an artistic success." The President's daughter left by train last night for Little Rock, Ark., where she is to appear Wednesday night during her concert tour of the south and southwest.

RESCUED SHIP STARTS ON NEW VOYAGE TODAY

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 10—Shipshape and undamaged despite a storm-tossed voyage that almost carried her into Lake Michigan's "grave yard of ships," the freighter Jupiter was scheduled today to embark on her own power for Chicago.

The Jupiter's captain and crew of 28 told of their rescue yesterday when the 3,000-ton boat was towed into port by the Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw, which picked her up after a narrow escape from dangerous reefs off Ludington, Mich., where she had been buffeted Friday night and Saturday by a 53-mile wind in 30-foot waves.

Friendship Train Due In Ogden, Utah, Today

By The Associated Press

OGDEN, Utah, Nov. 10—The friendship train, lengthening as it crosses the nation with food for Europe, was due here today from Reno and west coast cities.

The train pulled out of the Nevada city last night with 27 carloads of variety foods, triple the number with which it left its starting point—Los Angeles. It has added cars at Oakland, Sacramento and other California cities and picked up two in Reno.

MARINES 172 TODAY

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—The traditional spit and polish of the U. S. Marine Corps shone just a little brighter today as the corps celebrated its 172nd birthday with open house at posts and stations throughout the world. Biggest party of the day is that held by the Second Marine division at Camp Lejeune, N. C., where the guest of honor is Commandant Gen. A. A. Vandergrift.

2 HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

STATE GRANGE OPENS CONVENTION TODAY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10—Ohio's State Grange, second largest in the nation, opened its 75th annual convention today as a forerunner of the national session here Wednesday through Sunday.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and State Grange Master Joseph W. Fichter will deliver the main talks during the state meeting.

Fichter will keynote the convention tonight and Anderson will be chief speaker at tomorrow's annual banquet. Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and Chief Justice Carl Weygandt of the Ohio supreme court also will address the banquet.

The opening session of the state convention was at 2:30 p. m. in the Neil House. Delegates from throughout Ohio, along with representatives of other Grange organizations, were in attendance. The Ohio Grange has a membership of 115,000.

HUGHES

could collect the $1,900,000 only if he filed a claim for it.

"All that remains then," Senator O'Conor (D-Md), commented "is to force Mr. Hughes to take it."

Says Getting Raw Deal

Hughes declared that until he gave Meyer the assignment of entertaining army officers and doing other public relations work he was "getting the worst deal of any aircraft manufacturer in the United States."

"All the other airplane manufacturers were expending heavy sums in their sales efforts," he said. "I felt I had to do something to level off my position with the others and get a fair break on government contracts."

As for Meyer's activities, Hughes asserted:

"I think he patterned his work after that of other companies."

Ferguson asked whether Hughes recalled the names of any of the officers who had told him there was a feeling of hatred toward him at Wright Field.

Hughes named Col. C. S. Irvine, and Ferguson wanted to know what Irvine had told him.

"I'd rather he told you that," Hughes said.

But Ferguson insisted that Hughes tell his own version of the conversation with Irvine.

"Well, the substance of it was that I was heartily disliked at Wright Field," he said.

The chairman wanted to know whether it was Irvine who suggested that he should do more entertaining. Hughes said he didn't think Irvine was "as blunt as that," and he added:

"I remember that Jack Frye said their idea at Wright Field is that you sit in your own bailiwick out in Hollywood and don't have anything to do with them, and they don't like it."

Frye at the time was president of Trans-World Airlines, which Hughes controls.

Children Playing With Matches Blamed for Fire

Firemen from Central station answered two calls around noon today.

At 11:45 they put out flames in a workshop, coal shed, and outside toilet at 385 Jefferson street. The fire evidently was started by children playing with matches, Fire Chief Sifritt said. Loss was estimated at $250 to $300. The properly was owned by Dallas Wingo.

Sparks from a chimney set afire the roof of a house at 389 Chestnut street occupied by Ralph Coberly. Firemen answered the call at 12:45 p. m. About $25 damage resulted.

Fire Chief Sifritt said that in starting furnace fires, people should be careful to partially close the draft. An open draft sucks up burning paper and sparks and may set roofs on fire.

HOTEL FIRE EXTINGUISHED

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10—Fire broke out early today on the twenty-fourth floor of the partially-completed Terrace Plaza hotel. Firemen battled for nearly two hours to extinguish the blaze but Marshal Dan Vogel said damage amounted to "about $250." Vogel said the fire started when an electric light bulb ignited scaffolding. The bulb was one of a number left burning to help dry mortar in new brick work. Firemen carried hose lines to the scene of the blaze on emergency elevators.

Today Is Deadline For Admissions Tax

Today is the last day for filing admissions tax returns for the month of October under the new city levy, according to City Auditor Elmer Shaw.

Approximately 18 to 20 businesses in the city have to file returns according to licenses issued by the city auditor's office, and include theaters, schools fraternal and other organizations.

Mr. Shaw reported a majority have already filed returns with several having submitted reports today. Due to the fact that these are the first returns to be filed since the city took over the three per cent admission tax, the city auditor indicated a day of grace would be allowed before his office would consider assessment of penalty as provided for under the city ordinance.

KILLED ON MOTORCYCE

By The Associated Press

GIRARD, O., Nov. 10 — A Youngstown girl was killed and her companion injured yesterday in the crash of their motorcycle into a utility pole here. Miss Rebecca De Niro, 22, was killed, and Harry Mook, 27, who told police he lost control of the motorcycle on a curve, was treated at a hospital for minor injuries and released.

ISLAND PRISONERS NOW ARISTOCRATS

By International News Service

CAYENNE, French Guiana — The pilot of the Pan American Clipper "Onward" dipped low over that onetime "hell on earth" —Devil's Island. The former French prison colony looked tame enough from the air, with its quiet rows of barracks and deluxe tourist hotel under construction.

After an unsavory century-old history of human cruelty, the penal settlements in French Guiana are being rapidly liquidated.

The plane stewardess had the facts on the tip of her tongue. She related that where men had been gyved to thick walls for life, a fish cannery and a processing plant for extracting oils from shark livers have been constructed.

After circling over the "reformed reformatory," the plane made a brief stop at Cayenne, at the mouth of the Cayenne river. Only three miles offshore are the three Iles du Salut, one of which is Devil's Island.

If Alfred Dreyfus who unjustly spent almost a quarter of a century on the penal island, had not been pardoned with glory, he would probably now be sitting in clover in Cayenne, a respected citizen and pillar of that community of 15,000 people.

Happened to Many Prisoners

For this appears to have happened to many liberated prisoners who had served their terms or been pardoned by the French courts in the accelerated process of erasing the blot on the escutcheon of French justice.

A young Standard Oil company employe informed this reporter that the inhabitants of French Guiana are far from being industrious and ambitious, owing to climate and "education."

He said: "Education is highly prized by the people here because it's a way to freedom from manual and other forms of arduous labor."

Undertake Agriculture

Therefore the liberees—as the freed prisoners are called—accustomed to hard labor, have gone into agriculture, cattle ranching and gold mining with the result that they have become, in many cases, extremely wealthy and rank as the new aristocrats of the colony.

The French government has even advanced them original working capital since, according to French law, they must remain in Guiana for a term equal to the number of years corresponding to their sentences or for life.

France is of course encouraging immigration to Guiana to develop timberland, gold and bauxite mines. But, ironically, the freed prisoners got there first and they have taken excellent advantage of their priority.

HOSPITAL WORK STARTS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10 — Ground was broken today for construction of the $3,300,000 hospital unit at the Apple Creek State School for Feeble Minded near Wooster, state welfare director Charles L. Sherwood reported. When completed the hospital will provide additional space for another 500 to 600 feeble minded patients.

MARION MAN BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Dennis L. Trachsel, 29, operator of the Arctic Heating company, North Main street was bound over to the Marion county grand jury on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property when he appeared for hearing in municipal court at 10 a. m. today. He is free on $1,000 bond. The charge is the outgrowth of the arrest of George Ober of Marion on a charge of burglarizing a Columbus furnace shop. Trachsel did not testify this morning. He entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned in municipal court last Tuesday.

Ober, also of Marion, faces two counts of burglary and one of grand larceny in Columbus, the charges arising out of an alleged $5,500 theft of equipment from the Ohio Furnace company of that city on July 4 and Oct. 2 of this year.

A third individual, James Thomasson, 34, of Zanesville charged with receiving and concealing stolen property is free on bond pending continuation of his case. His bond was set in municipal court Friday at $1,000.

DEADLOCK CONTINUES

Snowfall Extends To Northern Missouri

By The Associated Press

New snowfalls as far south as northern Missouri last night deepened by two inches or more the covering already on the ground in western Nebraska and the northern Rocky Mountain region.

The northern Missouri snowfall had turned to light rain today, the Chicago weather bureau said, but added snow still was falling in southeastern Iowa.

The nation's coldest weather was lodged over the north central states with readings in that area reported well below 20 degrees at many points.

ROAD SEALER STANDS TEST

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—A new rubber compound for sealing concrete highways and airfield runways has been developed by the United States Rubber Company, it was announced today. Highway joints filled five years ago for test purposes with the new material, named "Sealz," show it still seals the joints tightly and appears capable of excluding water for many more years, the company said.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

This will bring you up to date on what is ahead for Europe, the biggest problem facing congress.

Last spring it was clear this country had been pouring out billions to help Europe recover without getting Europe back on its feet.

James Marlow

Congress would have to see that the aid not only helped Europe it also helped the American Economy through increased trade.

Congress would have to see that Europe as a whole was pretty much a mess, the biggest one in the world. In the end it might ruin us.

So on June 5, George Marshall, secretary of state, told Europe something like this:

We'll help you out you'll have to help yourselves, too.

You work out a plan for help yourselves such as exchanging things you need, like coal.

Then you find out what you can do for yourselves, and agree to do it come and tell us what you still need."

Russia and the countries dominated by Russia said they wanted no part of this tie-up with America.

BUT 16 OF THE WESTERN European countries took Marshall at his word and met in Paris. They agreed on a program of self-help over the next four years. And they figured out what added help they needed from us and other non-European countries.

That added help they needed was plenty. They needed money, machinery for their farms and to get their factories going, food, steel, coal, oil.

Over the next four years they need, they said, about $22,400,000,000 in help, most of it from us, in money and goods.

Since congress would have to approve any help from this country, it would need to know how much help we could give.

SO PRESIDENT TRUMAN set out to get the information.

▶He set up a special committee under J. A. Krug, secretary of the interior, to find out how much of our goods, like coal we could afford to let Europe have.

▶He asked his council of economic advisers to tell him what giving this help would do to this country. For example would giving away some scarce things boost prices here?

▶He set up a special committee of 19 citizens under W. Averell Harriman, secretary of commerce, to tell him how this help should be given.

Krug's committees reported Oct. 18 that we could give a lot of help without hurting ourselves.

The economic advisers reported a week ago that we could give the help without damaging ourselves, if we tried to keep prices from running away.

And Saturday night the Harriman committee made its report.

THIS COMMITTEE STUDIED the other two reports and outlined a plan for giving help. But it said we could not give all the help the 16 nations asked.

President Truman had intended using these three reports in making recommendations to congress when it met in regular session in January to consider the Marshall plan.

But in the meantime something very critical had happened in Europe.

France and Italy, which were among the 16 nations that agreed on the Marshall plan, got into a desperate jam for food and fuel to carry them through the winter.

(This was a special need and is not part of the Marshall plan, which is a long-range, four-year plan and is not supposed to start until 1948.)

So Mr. Truman called congress into special session Nov. 17 to vote special help for France and Italy this winter.

THAT'S THE FIRST THING congress will tackle when it meets next Monday.

Once that is out of the way congress will have to consider the four-year Marshall plan.

Next week, therefore, Mr. Truman will recommend to congress help for France and Italy right now.

He may want a little longer before sending up his ideas on the Marshall plan which will need a lot more talk and investigation.

Secretary Marshall was to go before a congressional committee today to say what he thinks should be done for Europe.

Besides the three reports mentioned above, all very long and detailed, more than 200 congressmen have been abroad since July making their own investigations into the help needed for foreign countries.

So congress, when it meets next Monday, will have an enormous amount of special and firsthand information on the problem of helping Europe.

NINE ARE INITIATED BY MT. OLIVE GRANGE

Nine members were initiated and a harvest drill presented at a meeting of Mt. Olive grange, Thursday night. Dwight Heagy presided as master for the work in the first and second degrees and Joseph Lyon held the office for the work in the third and fourth degrees. Mr. and Mrs. William Plinchaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rothfuss presented the harvest drill. The next meeting of the grange will be held Tuesday, Nov. 18.

At a special meeting held recently there was a reception held for the faculty of the Green Camp school. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Orval Ulry, Mrs. M. Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. Kessler, Mrs. O. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Probst, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. Helen Mathews, Miss Mildred Little and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Roettger. Supper was served to the members and guests by the home economics committee, Mrs. Hazel Uncapher, Mrs. Edna Knachel and Mrs. Maude Owen. A program was presented which included a talk by Rev. Gunther.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"HOLD on to your receiver," Dicky said, "while I tell her that."

I obeyed him, picturing Olga's illumined face when she should receive the message I had sent to her concerning Olina.

Then my husband's voice sounded again.

"We'll be with you in nothing flat," he said, with his usual extravagance of speech, but it was an exceedingly short interim before the hall knocker sounded. Noel admitted them, but I already was on my feet, and I waited only for a whispered exchange of words with Olga.

"How is she taking it?" Olga murmured.

"Beautifully," I whispered back. "She is very happy, and she is waiting for you. So I'm going to rush away."

"Bless you for everything!" Olga murmured, and I cut Philip Veritzen's ceremonious leave-taking as short as possible without rudeness, for I knew how anxious his regal wife was to see her daughter.

"Pompous old ass!" Dicky commented, when we were safely on our way to our own apartment. "Sometimes it's hard to remember what a thundering good scout he is under all that varnish!"

"It surely is," I agreed, and my husband chuckled.

"I thought you were a bit fed up when he was spreading the treacle," he said, "but you shut him up very adroitly. Now tell me the reactions of the prospective bride, and that fly in the ointment her temperamental stepbrother."

"Not until we're safely inside our own apartment," I told him, and he nodded.

"Right you are," he said but when we had come back to our living room, and had fastened the outer door, I looked around uncertainly.

"We're going to have a lot of things to say to several people," I said, and he promptly put a finish to my sentence.

"And you think it would save time if you bunched 'em" he said. "I agree. Have you told Noel yet?"

"Yes, he forced my hand," I said.

"He would" he commented. "Then that leaves Mother, Faith, Katharine and Mary yet in ignorance. The first two can wait, and Mary should be enlightened tactfully by you alone. But is there any reason why Katrina cannot be snatched from slumber now, brought in here, told first what you and I had learned at the Underwoods, and then, with me, informed about what just happened at the Philip Veritzens?"

"No reason whatever," I said, for his reaction was just what I had wished it to be."

"Then bring her in," he said, and I stole noiselessly into the bedroom where Mary lay in deep slumber, and crossing to Katharine on the couch, pressed my fingers on her wrist in the gesture of awakening which she herself had taught me.

Her eyes came wide open on the instant, and putting my left hand on my lips, I gestured with my right to the other room. She nodded comprehension, and I went back again, leaving the door a bit ajar. She came through it almost at once, and closing it, sank down in the armchair Dicky pulled forward for her.

"I take it the curtain is rising," she said.

"Very shortly," Dicky told her. "We've just heard the prologue. And there sure is something doing."

"Something involving Jack?" she asked quickly, voicing the fear always near her heart.

"Not yet," Dicky said. "He may get into the mess, but he's far away from it now, in place and time."

She caught back her sigh of relief.

"Is it something Mary must hear? Something disturbing?" she asked next.

"It's something she must hear, certainly," Mary's uncle said with a grin; "but I don't think she's going to find it disturbing."

"Suppose you give out," she said then. "If you rob a gal of her beauty sleep, you ought to have a worthwhile tale."

"Go on, Madge; tell her," my husband adjured me. But I shook my head.

"You'll do the story telling up to the point where I left for the Philip Veritzens to see Olina," I said, and Katharine gave me a gamin' grin.

"Mary—Olina," she said. "Dollars to doughnuts I know your news! Georges is spreading his wings over the Lansfield!"

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

ALBANY, N. Y.

I DROPPED in to see America's best-known dairy farmer today, and he was quite optimistic over the prospects for 1948.

"We're about breaking even now," he said, "and next year we expect to do better."

The farmer was Tom Dewey, and he wasn't talking about votes. He was speaking purely about his 500-acre dairy farm, a subject he is much more vocal on than the question of who will be the candidates for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

Hal Boyle

Since Dewey is also governor of New York state, his political acquaintances like to kid "Farmer Tom" about his cow farm, but he insists it is no mere hobby with him.

"My major interest is in running a dairy farm," he said.

It is located in beautiful Dutchess county, where another well-known farmer used to live. Fellow name of Roosevelt.

Like most farmers, 'Farmer Tom' had a grievance against the government. In this case it was the New York City government.

To understand this grievance you need a little background.

"THE BIGGEST PROBLEM of the dairy farmer in this country isn't cows—it's mastitis," Dewey says. "We've just about got tuberculosis in cows whipped, and we've got Bang's disease pretty well cleaned up in New York.

"But there is some incidence of mastitis in 95 per cent of the dairy herds."

The best way I can figure out to describe mastitis is to say that it is an infection that annoys cows in the fewest area so much they cut down production.

Well, to meet the sanitation requirements for milk sold in New York City, dairy farmers have had to shelter their cows at night in dormitories having concrete floors which must be washed down daily.

This is okay for the milk drinkers but hard on the cows. When they curl up for a little shut-eye, their tender teats often hits the damp cold concrete. Dewey and a lot of other farmers believe this makes them more susceptible to mastitis.

SO THEY PROPOSED a return to pen stabling, which permits the cows to bunk down on farm bedding of chopped straw, corn stalks or hay.

Farmer Dewey took the matter right to the head man—Mayor O'Dwyer of New York City in this case.

"I told him there was no reason pen stabling wouldn't satisfy sanitary regulations under a proper system of inspection," he said.

The mayor agreed to let 100 dairy farms in the metropolitan milk production area—including Dewey's—try it as a test to determine if it would reduce mastitis.

The heavy duties of running the most populous state in America force Dewey to be a commuting farmer. Each weekend, carrying along state papers to work on at night, he sets out for his farm, which at present has 101 cows. He always tries to get there by milking time.

"Certainly I milk cows," he said. "It's my principal interest in life. That way I know my herd."

(This is the first of two columns on Thomas E. Dewey.)

WASHINGTON

YOU may have noticed lately the brief news items out of the west about Sen. Glen H. Taylor of Idaho and his cross-country horse back ride.

They have told how he figured on clop-cloppety-clopping across the nation in the interests of peace, now he—not the horse—developed saddle sores at Tucson, Ariz., and now (according to Mrs. Taylor who issued bulletins in Los Angeles) he traded this beast in on a more comfortable steed. All this made amusing reading.

The gentleman from Idaho is a smart young fellow. An ex-vaudevillian and hill-billy radio troubadour he may be, but Sen. Taylor is no dope. I got to wondering, as did his constituents, what was cooking beneath his handsome head of hair.

WE SHOULDN'T HAVE worried about him. The senator is in with a report, scribbled from his saddle-bag, about what he had in mind. We may not agree, but at least we can listen respectfully.

PEOPLE HE SAID have been calling him "that crazy senator on horseback." That's fine. He's been trying to call attention in the most spectacular way possible to himself and his idea on how to head off any more wars. He had to do it this way, he continued, because his hair wasn't white and his beard wasn't two feet long. Americans ordinarily don't listen to their senators, he said, unless they've been on the job around 40 years. Hence the horse. It made headlines and drew audiences.

Sen. Taylor's been asking his listeners to put themselves in the position of the Russians and then see how they felt about American policies. And again I repeat I'm trying not to take sides, but to report what a U. S. senator is telling the people attracted by his horse.

"IN OTHER WORDS," he wrote, "how would we feel if the Russians suddenly began dredging the harbors of Mexico, building hard-surface roads to the borders of California and Texas and otherwise making military preparations for an unannounced purpose? I think we would be plenty upset. That is exactly what the United States has been doing in Turkey and, to some extent, in Greece."

Sen. Taylor listed a number of similar suppositions, which he asked his clients to consider seriously. His thought was that the United States did not intend to make war on Russia—but it must have looked that way to the Russians. He said our relief work abroad couldn't have appeared otherwise in Moscow.

"HOW MUCH BETTER to have turned all of these activities over to the United Nations and therefore made of the United Nations a strong organization which could handle the problems," he wrote. "I believe that Russia is now firmly convinced that we are bent on total destruction of Communism, by war if necessary. I believe that Communism and free enterprise capitalism can exist in the same world. I believe that if we would retreat from our power politics assault and provide both Russia and the world at large with tangible evidence of our good faith that we can avert a war."

This is not nearly all the senator had to say, but it gives you the general idea. He's feeling fine, now that he has a horse that fits, but President Truman has ruined his trip by calling congress back to work next week. Sen. Taylor said he'd have to abandon his horseback ride before it was half finished and get back to work, listening to his elders in the senate speak.

LIPPMANN

state must negotiate for political reasons. Consider, for example, the mere name of our proposed German state. Is it to be called "Germany" or is it to be called "Western Germany?" Any name we give it will be a standing reminder and invitation to come to terms with the east. Consider also Berlin, and whether, having broken off negotiations with Russia and made a separate peace, we evacuate Berlin or stay there. If we evacuate it, we shall have surrendered to Russia the ace of trumps—namely the power to restore to Germany its ruined but nonetheless historical capital. And if we try to stay, what will we be staying in Berlin for, since quadripartite military government no longer exists even in theory?

The western Germans must also negotiate for economic reasons since so much of German trade flows to the east.

Therefore, I contend that whatever else we do or cannot do at the next meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers, the one thing we should not do is to make a final break followed by a separate peace. The present stalemate bad and expensive as it is, would not be so bad and so expensive as that.

For though we are losing control of the internal life of Germany, we do at least still control the external relations of western Germany. Russia, the eastern countries and eastern Germany must still deal with us in settling the international status of Germany.

Therefore, I contend that we must not jump out of the frying pan into the fire. If we cannot reach an agreement with the Russians at the London conference, we should not break off the negotiations but should prepare a formula designed to resume negotiation in the spring. Then presumably the Marshall plan will have been adopted, its advantages, inducements, and promises will have begun to demonstrate themselves, and we shall be identified not with the division of Europe and the partition of Germany but with the unity of Europe and its recovery from the war.

Marion Angels Lose to Fort Wayne, 13-0

Blocked Punt, 62-Yard March Lead To St. Joseph Tallies.

Marion Safety Cab Angels dropped a tough decision to the strong Ft. Wayne St. Joseph team, 13-0, in the Indiana city before 2,000 yesterday.

A blocked punt in the opening minute of the initial quarter plus a 62-yard sustained drive in the beginning of the second quarter accounted for all the scoring. The game, one of the most gruelling yet witnessed, saw five St. Jo and four local men laid out. Coach Gene Fetter's team was minus the services of seven lettermen and the lack of reserves contributed greatly to the Cabbies' defeat.

St. Jo scored their first tally in the opening minute of the game when Don Difillippo broke through and blocked Cheney's punt on the locals' 25. After two tries at the line proved futile, Bud Lill uncorked an aerial to Tom Smith in the end zone for the first score of the game. Ranley converted for the extra point.

Near the end of the first quarter with Joe Redman passing and Bill Ranley running, St. Jo started a sustained drive from their own 38 which carried them to the locals" 1-yard line as the period ended.

In the beginning of the second quarter Lill, Ranley and Gene Roya failed to crack the Cabbies' line in three attempts. On the fourth down, Redman scored around right end on a beautifully executed triple reverse. Redman's attempted conversion was no good.

The third quarter saw the locals coming back strong to dominate the play. Ed Simmons hit the line for 12 yards up to the locals' 49, and Leo Belknap followed up with four more to the enemy 47. However, St. Jo held on downs and Simmons punted out of bounds on the Indiana 17. On the next play Capt. Martin Lewis broke through center to smear Ranley for a 12-yard loss which prompted them to punt to Simmons who ran the ball back to the Ft. Wayne 18 behind the interference of Griffith and Whaley. A Safety Cab fumble was recovered by Lill which stopped the locals' threat.

The fourth quarter saw Max Roseberry converted from end to fullback by Coach Fetter and it loked as if the Angels were starting to roll. Roseberry pitched an aerial to Bud Reams for a first down on Ft. Wayne's 29. Roseberry picked up nine yards off tackle and Reams added two more for another first down. Howard Hodges swept around end for eight yards and Cheney piled on two more for the third first down on the St. Jo 12. However, the time ran out before the locals could punch across for a tally.

Jumper, Hunter Titles Yet Open in Horse Show

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—With two more days of competition remaining the scraps for both the jumper and hunter championships of the National Horse show were still wide open today but the Dodge stables of Rochester, Mich., held the lion's share of the saddle and harness ribbons for the second straight year.

Poppy, an aged chestnut mare from the Weston, Ont., stables of Canadian Horseman W. R. Ballard, held a slim lead in the scoring toward the jumped title with 16 points at the end of seven of the ten events.

In second place with 13 points was Sun Beau, a nine-year-old chestnut gelding owned by Sterling Smith of Ravenna, O., whose Happy Landing stands third in the competition with nine points.

Out of the Cellar But Back Into Big 9 Griddle Go Bucks

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10—Ohio State's football Buckeyes, out of the Big Nine cellar at last because of their "after-the-game-was-over" defeat of Northwestern, began work today on the problem of holding or improving their sixth-place berth in the standings.

And that, Coach Wes Fesler was the first to admit, will be some chore. The Bucks conclude their 1947 campaign against Illinois here Saturday and Michigan at Ann Arbor the next weekend.

To make matters all the worse for the Bucks, their backfield is literally held together by tape.

Alex Verdova, who has handled right half most of the time since Dean Sensanbaugher was hurt early this fall, came out of the Northwestern game with a torn cartilage that, says Fesler, "definitely will keep him out of the Illinois game."

Fullback Joe Whisler, who played his top game of the season last Saturday, was nursing a joint injury in the chest that will keep him out of practice most of this week. Fesler also reported Pete Perini, the defensive backfield stalwart who shares punting duties with Whisler, ruptured a muscle in his left arm. A specialist will check the arm this afternoon to determine the extent of the injury.

But even those possible costly injuries—coming on the heels of hurts to backfield stars Bob Brugge and Sensanbaugher—couldn't dim the campus enthusiasm today. After all, Ohio State had done something few fans gave the Bucks a chance to do—won a Big Nine game this fall.

And the way the Bucks, tripped Northwestern, 7-6, Saturday won't be forgotten around here as long as football is played.

With less than two minutes to play, State had the ball on its own 37. Two long passes put the Bucks on Northwestern's ten. But Northwestern pulled its fourth goal-line stand and held for downs. Then came the real excitement.

The 'Cats tried to freeze the ball, but had to punt after series of penalties on both sides slowed the clock. There were 13 seconds left when Pandel Savic completed a pass to Bob Demmel on the 11. Savic passed again—and Northwestern intercepted. But the Cats were penalized for having 12 men on the field. State tried a line play—it failed, and the bands paraded out on the field. But the officials ruled Northwestern offside, and gave State another play. This time, Savic hit Jimmy Clark in the end zone.

Emil Moldea's try for the extra point was blocked. Once more the officials had to clear the field of bands and spectators. Northwestern was ruled offside again. Moldea's conversion was good the second time—and Ohio State had its second win of the season.

Some Guys Still Carry The Pigskin In Era of Aerials

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Lo, the poor ball carrier!

There is a real vanishing All-American.

Yet in this era of streamlined football where the accent is on the airways, there was indubitable evidence today that a few guys are left who can carry the mail.

Some coaches and most spectators had reached the point where they didn't believe there was a gridiron galloper in the country who could stagger 100 yards. But for perhaps the first time since the flying wedge was outlawed, the runner overshadowed the pitchers and catchers in Saturday's footbrawls.

Salaam:

To Terry Brennan, who ran back the opening kickoff 95 yards and then carried over the clincher in Notre Dame's 27-7 win over Army.

To Penn's Bob Deuber, who went 61 and 56 yards for Penn's winning touchdowns in a 19-7 conquest of Virginia.

To Wisconsin's Earl (Jug) Girard, whose 85 and 63 yard scoring jaunts started the Bagders toward their 46-14 drubbing of Iowa.

To sub Carl Holland of Cornell, for the 90-yard run with an interception which downed Syracuse, 12-6.

To Jimmy Nowe of Kentucky, who went 56 yards for the touchdown that beat West Virginia, 15-6.

Of course the slingers, the receivers and the booters came in for their share, as usual. Like:

Mississippi's Charley Conerly who ran for two and passed four more beating Tennessee, 48-13.

Ohio State's Emil Moldea, whose placement after the game ended gave the Buckeyes a 7-6 win over Northwestern.

But it sure was good seeing those breakaway guys go at it once again!

GALION DROPS 19-6 FINALE TO ASHLAND

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 10—Galion High school football team closed its season Saturday night losing, 19-6, at Ashland.

The game was the last for 10 seniors of the Galion High Tigers.

Galion scored in the first quarter with Ramsey plunging off tackle. Tuscan's pass to Eichler was no good for the extra point.

Ashland scored in the second period with Hurst plowing through guard. In the third quarter O. Burns scored off tackle. Ashland's last tally in the game came in the final quarter when A. Glasser caught a blocked pass and ran around the end. Burns' try for extra points by placement was made good only on the last touchdown.

Majors To Search For Talent in Draft Today

By The United Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10—Major league baseball executives met here today to cull the lists of minor league players eligible for the annual major league draft in a search for new diamond talent.

First choice went to the St. Louis Browns by virtue of the eighth place finish in the American League race last season. The Philadelphia Phillies, who tied with Pittsburgh for the cellar spot in the National League, won second choice by lot.

The remaining 14 clubs then will follow in reverse order of their finish in the pennant races with the Brooklyn Dodgers last in line.

The big-league clubs will pay draft prices ranging from $10,000 to class AAA clubs down to $2,000 for class D players for the talent they pick.

Each club may draft as many of the minor-leaguers as it chooses, although it may not exceed its normal player-limit, and only one player may be drafted from any club in class A or higher.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10—Cleveland's Browns today were another step closer to their second straight championship in the western division of the All America Football Conference, but the indications are that a rough road lies ahead.

The Clevelanders bumped into the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday—a team they had come to regard as their favorite "cousins"—but after the struggle was over the Browns were on top by the margin of a single point—13 to 12.

The Dodgers, who have won only two of nine loop contests, absorbed a 55 to 7 shellacking from the Browns earlier this year but they were no doormats yesterday.

They started out in a whirlwind fashion and before the Browns got their second breath the easterners had moved 80 yards in eight plays for a touchdown after the opening kickoff.

Brilliant running by Monk Gafford, Bob (Hunchy) Hoernaschemeyer and Mickey Colmer sparked the drive, with Colmer carrying the ball for the final five yards.

The usually reliable toe of Phil Martinovich failed the Dodgers on the conversion attempt and that failure, coupled with his inability to convert after the Dodgers' second touchdown, prevented Brooklyn from winding up with either a tie or a victory. Until yesterday Martinovich had racked up 30 straight points after touchdown.

The Dodgers' quick punch aroused the Browns and on the second lay after the kickoff "Automatic Otto" Graham uncorked a long heave to Dante Lavelli for a 72-yard scoring play.

Lou (The Toe) Groza booted the extra point which eventually became the deciding factor.

Graham also was on the pitching end of the Browns' second touchdown, an 80-yard march in the second quarter. Mickey Mayne took a 15-yard toss from Otto to reach pay dirt. Groza's placement attempt was foiled by a bad pass from center.

Neither club could produce a sustained offensive in the third quarter, but the Dodgers exploded again with seven minutes to go.

Gafford broke loose and with the aid of brilliant blocking streaked 79 yards for a score, falling into the end zone as a couple of Brownies hit him in a desperate attempt to knock him out of bounds.

Martinovich failed on his second conversion try and the Browns escaped with a one-point triumph.

The game featured establishment of a new conference record by Graham, who completed 53 passes without an interception. Otto also established the previous mark of 49 completions.

Snatches of Sports

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—There's a story making the rounds about the football player who raced 60 or 70 yards through a broken field for the winning touchdown. A few days later his coach was reviewing films of the game and three times he stopped the projector to point out flaws in the lad's technique . . . "You should have cut to your right there," he'd say, or "You broke away from four blockers there." . . "Yes sir, Coach," the kid responded as he watched his image cross the goal line. "But how was it for distance?" . . . We heard it told about Maryland's Lucien Gambino, but you can bet that before long they'll be hanging it on Terry Brennan and his 97 yard run against Army.

IN THE RACING secretary's office at Hialeah, there's a bulletin board on which is posted such pertinent information as where a horseman can rent a room during the season without hocking the family's jewels. . . On it one Miami landlord had tacked a notice, listing several rooms, and at the bottom it says: "Will consider trading Waialae course.

ENTERS NAVAL ACADEMY

Robert W. Arn, son of Cecil G. Arn, Kenton, has been admitted to the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., as a member of the Class of 1951. Forty-eight per cent of the new class, which numbers 874 "plebes," have seen service in some branch of the armed forces. A full quota of 160 appointments from the enlisted ranks of the regular Navy and Marine Corps was set by the Secretary of the Navy.

Unbeaten Denison To Meet Top Test in Ohio Wesleyan

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10—Denison's Big Red gridders, having hurdled seven straight foes, may pick up all the football laurels in the buckeye state this weekend if they can get by Ohio Wesleyan's battling Bishops.

Boasting the only unsullied record in the realm, the Granville boys have only Wittenberg's Lutherans to contend with after the game with Wesleyan, and no one expects the Springfielders to provide more than a slight workout for the title-bound crew.

But Wesleyan is a different matter. The Bishops and the Big Red haven't met a common foe, but Wesleyan has gained stature with victories over Albion, Mich., Otterbein, Case, DePauw and Mt. Union, a 7-7 tie with Ohio U., and a 19-27 loss to Baldwin-Wallace.

Denison has swept over Rio Grande, Washington-Jefferson, Beloit, Wooster, Oberlin, Muskingum, and Capital, piling up 244 points while allowing the seven opponents only 42.

Wesleyan surprised Saturday, holding heavier and faster Ohio U. to a 7-7 tie, while Denison performed as usual with a 56-7 triumph over Capital.

The Denison-Wesleyan game, along with the homecoming tilt of resurgent Ohio State against Illinois, holds the weekend spotlight as Ohio's college squads offer a 24-game program, 11 against out-of-state opponents. In interstate games the Buck clubs have won 43, lost 37 and tied seven this season.

John Carroll's Blue Streaks added the latest interstate win. With Carl Taseff, 19-year-old freshman, scoring four touchdowns in the last period, the Streaks came from behind to whip Niagara U. at Niagara Falls, N. Y., yesterday, 41-26. Taseff also scored in the third period—on a 79-yard gallop. Carroll was behind, 19-7, at halftime.

The weekend slate:

Friday night: Mt. Union at Findlay, John Carroll at Youngstown, Wooster at Heidelberg, Kent at Akron, and Kenyon at Hiram (afternoon).

Saturday: Cedarville at Ashland, Case at Baldwin-Wallace, Cincinnati at Western Reserve, Rio Grande at Salem, W. Va., Iowa State Teachers at Bowling Green, Ohio U. at Dayton, Defiance at Kalamazoo, Mich.; Denison at Ohio Wesleyan, Miami at Michita, Kan.; Muskingum at Oberlin, Illinois at Ohio State, South Dakota State at Toledo (night), Marshall at Xavier, Capital at Wittenberg, Manchester (Ind.) at Otterbein, Franklin (Ind.) at Wilmington, Bluffton-Ohio Northern at Lima (night), Wilberforce at Philander Smith (Little Rock, Ark.) and Gustavus Adolphus at Steubenville.

ST. MARY CITY CHAMPS

St. Mary grade school gridders won the city touch football championship Saturday afternoon by defeating Greenwood, 12-0. They took the west championship Friday night drubbing Silver 21-6.

NOTRE DAME HAILED AS GREATEST TEAM

Irish Ground Attack Beats Army 27-7 Saturday.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Unbeaten Notre Dame, having finally cast off the blankets which cloaked its offensive power B. A. (before Army), was being hailed from all sides today as one of the greatest football teams in Irish history as well as the No. 1 college eleven in the nation.

Everyone knew Notre Dame had a very good football team even before Frank Leahy's Fighting Irish nearly annihilated Army 27-7 Saturday.

It was the manner in which Notre Dame won that convinced many that this year's Irish array rates around the top among the host of great teams the famous university had produced through the years. From the opening kickoff when Terry Brennan scampered 95 yards for a Notre Dame touchdown until the final gun there never was any doubt about the outcome.

Notre Dame compiled the staggering total of 361 yards along the ground against a team which was reputed to have one of the strongest lines anywhere. It made only 28 in the air. If the Irish had any weakness, it was supposed to be a so-so running attack. They knocked that theory into a cocked hat.

The series ended at 23 victories for Notre Dame, seven for Army and four ties.

The Irish are not alone in the all-conquering class. They are joined by Michigan, generally regarded as the No. 2 team of the nation, Southern Methodist, Pennsylvania, Georgia Tech, Penn State and Utah among the major colleges. All have perfect slates.

The all-victorious list may get a pruning this weekend as in addition to the Michigan-Wisconsin and Notre Dame-Northwestern games, Penn engages still-to-be-reckoned-with Army. Penn State tangles with ever-dangerous Navy, Georgia Tech takes on resurgent Alabama and S.M.U. tackles Arkansas.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 — Grains opened with little change on the board of trade today. Trade was light in view of uncertainties regarding what proposals the administration will offer congress to combat domestic high prices a week from today.

Wheat opened unchanged to a cent higher, December $2.97¾-½; corn was ⅜ lower to 1⅛ higher, December $2.33½, and oats were ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, December $1.15⅞.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 — Individual stocks edged upward today while many market leaders stumbled slightly.

Dividends and earnings dropped a few favorites but again had scant effect on the market as a whole.

Dealings slowed after a moderately active start and fractional irregularity ruled near midday.

Omnibus Corp. and Third Avenue Transit resumed their advance on expectations of fare boosts. Resistant were General Motors, Western Union, American Telephone, International Harvester, Goodyear, DuPont, Phelps Dodge and Chesapeake & Ohio. Occasional laggards were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Can and Southern Pacific.

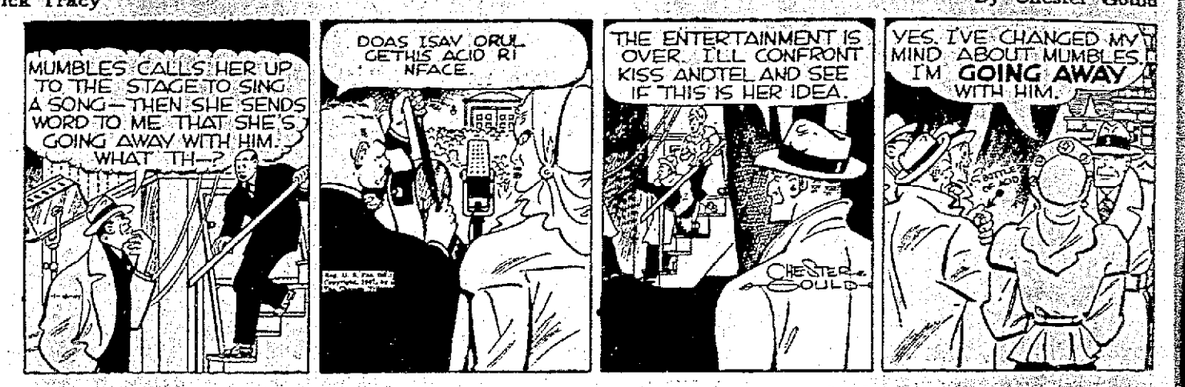
Rip Kirby — By Alex Raymond

DO YOUR STUFF, DES! REMEMBER, YOU ONCE PLAYED WITH BARRYMORE IN "HAMLET!"
THIS IS IT! MRS. FORTUNA'S ROOMING HOUSE!
AS A MATTER OF FACT, I DID, SIR!
OH, MR. KIRBY! I HOPE HE FINDS MY TRUNK! IT'S GOT ALL I HAVE TO TRACE LITTLE SHAWN!
DON'T WORRY, DOLLY. DES IS A MAN OF PARTS... YOU KNOW, I'LL BET THE OLD BOY DID PLAY IN "HAMLET!"
MADAME, HAVE YOU ACCOMMODATIONS FOR A FELLOW THESPIAN?
ONLY FOR CASH IN ADVANCE, JUNIOR!
PAID IN ADVANCE, MADAME! NOW, MY GOOD MAN, KINDLY TAKE UP MY TRUNK!

Dick Tracy — By Chester Gould



MUMBLES CALLS HER UP TO THE STAGE TO SING A SONG—THEN SHE SENDS WORD TO ME THAT SHE'S GOING AWAY WITH HIM. WHAT TH—?
DOAS ISAV ORUL GETHIS ACID RI NFACE.
THE ENTERTAINMENT IS OVER. I'LL CONFRONT KISS ANDTEL AND SEE IF THIS IS HER IDEA.
CHESTER GOULD
YES, I'VE CHANGED MY MIND ABOUT MUMBLES. I'M GOING AWAY WITH HIM.

MODEST MAIDENS — By Jay Alan

"Look, if you keep holding hands, I'll have to charge you the 20% amusement tax."

Superman — By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

OLIVIA HILL, THE PERFECT WOMAN, SEEMS TO HAVE TAKEN QUITE A SHINE TO THE PERFECT MAN—SUPERMAN!
1769
COME ALONG, SUPERMAN. YOU'RE TAKING ME TO LUNCH.
BUT—BUT, MISS HILL—WE STILL HAVEN'T DISCUSSED THE PROGRAM FOR THE PLANET FUND RALLY.
YES—WE HAVE TO ARRANGE ALL THAT TODAY.
PERFECTLY TRUE. BUT I LIKE TO DEAL WITH EACH THING IN ITS PROPER ORDER.
AND AS FAR AS I'M CONCERNED, YOU COME FIRST, SUPERMAN.
WELL!

Gasoline Alley — By Frank King

I SUPPOSE YOU KNOW, CHIGGER, THAT WALLET & BOBBLE WON'T BE SELLIN' YOUR LINE.
I'VE HEARD ABOUT IT, BOBBLE, AND I'VE DECIDED NOT TO PUSH THE MATTER
IN THAT CASE I DON'T GET ANY REBATE TO PAY THE $600 STILL DUE ON MY CAR. I CAME TO SEE IF YOU'D TAKE IT BACK.
CERTAINLY, I'LL TAKE IT BACK. AND I'LL PAY YOU $800, AND CANCEL YOUR INDEBTEDNESS!
BUT I PAID $1400! I'LL BE LOSING $600!
TAKE YOUR CHOICE: TAKE A $600 LOSS, OR PAY ME $600 MORE AND KEEP THE CAR.

Joe Palooka — By Ham Fisher

AN' HE HAD ME BY TH' THROAT... I COULDN'T MOVE... I WAS CHOKIN'...
I DON'T THINK HE KNOWS I'M HERE... HE'LL COME BACK. I'D LIKE TO GET MY HANDS ON 'IM!
H-HE WILL... DON'T LEAVE ME, KID... D-DON'T LEAVE...
I WON'T! NOBODY KNOWS I'M HERE. I'LL TELL THE CLERK TO CALL THE POLICE.
PSST JOE... SOMEBODY'S C-COMIN'... D-DOWN TH' HALL...
QUICK—PUT OUT THE LIGHT... I'LL SIT SLUMPED IN YOUR CHAIR... NO TIME FOR POLICE... NOW.

Terry and the Pirates — By George Wunder

SPRAY, YOU NEED A HOT BATH AND SOME REST. TAKE MY BILLET NEXT DOOR. CHARLEY CAN TELL US THE SAD DETAILS. SEE YOU IN THE MORNING.
NOW, THEN, LET'S RUN THROUGH THIS AGAIN—SLOWLY. WHAT WERE YOU AND SPRAY DOING IN A GAMBLING TRAP AND WHY WERE YOU THROWN OUT?
TROUBLE ME NOT WITH TRIVIA, TERRY, MY CHUM. HISTORY HAS BEEN MADE TONIGHT...
...SHE KISSED ME AND CALLED ME SKIPPER!

The Gumps — By Gus Edson

OH, MR. FIGG... IT WAS SO SWEET OF YOU TO HELP ME SELECT MY ART MATERIAL...
KNOWING WHAT MATERIALS TO USE IS PART OF YOUR ART EDUCATION, MRS. GUMP...
MR. GUMP, IT ISN'T NECESSARY TO BUY THE FINEST QUALITY OF OIL PAINT AT THIS TIME....
WHY NOT? THE BEST PAINTS MAKE THE BEST PICTURES... THAT'S LOGICAL!
BETTER SEND TWO EASELS... SHE'LL USE ONE FOR A SPARE... A GROSS OF BRUSHES AND..
DO YOU THINK I BOUGHT ENOUGH STUFF TO LAST MRS. GUMP FOR A WHILE?
WELL—IF SHE ISN'T WASTEFUL, IT SHOULD LAST HER ABOUT NINETY SEVEN YEARS

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The British Labor press urges more austerity to sell socialism . . . It is felt that the people are not quite miserable enough yet to be really happy.

* * *

The government is accused of catering to the middle class in the manner of decadent capitalist countries which remain vulgarly wealthy.

* * *

Still it must be admitted that the labor government went into debt much quicker and much deeper had been anticipated . . . Who can complain of its liberal policies?

* * *

Meanwhile the Soviet peoples are celebrating 30 years of five-year plans and have received several more as an anniversary gift.

* * *

Many here seem to doubt that the Soviet actually has discovered the secret of the atom bomb but no proof has been requested.

* * *

It was disturbing news to some of our people but it would take more than that to frighten the average commuter who is conditioned to daily shock.

APPOINTED MISSIONARY
